Technically, Blue Valley Senior High School began in 1968, with patron approval of a $2,825,000 bond issue. Through its predecessor, Stanley (Rural) High School, however, its roots can be traced much further, to antiquity itself (relatively, at least).

The increasing number of secondary school age students in Stanley led citizens to initiate Stanley High School's construction in 1919. As the construction progressed, Stanley Rural held its first classes in a local Methodist church. At that time the school's freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes totaled seventeen students, and the teachers numbered a modest two.

Two years later, after spending a year in nearby Presbyterian church, the slightly larger SHS student body and faculty transferred into the new building, which presently serves as the District Office. Oleth Young, the sole member of the Class of '21 came the school's first graduate. As Stanley High School's population continued to expand through proceeding decades, the range and quality of its curriculum and extracurricular opportunities advanced impressively. The high school remained a center of community life and produced students such as Coach Rick Taylor who today make direct contributions to Blue Valley. By the late 1960's, SHS students began to outgrow existing facilities, and the District proposed a bond issue to fund the construction of a new high school. Three years after approval, BVHS was completed, with a capacity of 700 students and an initial enrollment of 400.

This yearbook, which examines Blue Valley's past and present, commemorates the publication of Volume 1 of the Marooner, the Stanley High School yearbook, exactly one-half century ago.

ANTIQUITY

Blue Valley's present identity is a compromise between its strong rural heritage and a growing cosmopolitan influence. This year, the student body, faculty, and administration put forth a greater cooperative effort than ever before to preserve the best elements of both worlds. Such elements included a continued concern for the needs of the individual, amidst enormous growth, and increased academic and social opportunities.

Blue Valley teachers, the source of the school's academic excellence, often prove extremely challenging, as well as extremely fond of assigning homework. All this work, however, did not completely stifle the extracurricular and social lives of students. Leadership Seminars, for example, came to involve over ten percent of the student body in various committees, while Trivial Pursuit joined "cruising Metcalf," "movie-going," and "just plain partying" as popular weekend, and sometimes weekday, diversions.

Expanding enrollment necessitated the addition of a new commons area, a larger theater, four more mobile classrooms, and several inconveniences this year. The student body welcomed the completion of the commons and theater, and indications are that students may even be taking a liking for the mobiles, whose numbers will continue to increase until Blue Valley North is completed in 1986.

Throughout this construction, the auxiliary gym did not provide the most pleasant atmosphere for consuming the cafeteria food, the halls were once again packed, and underclassman parking was often scarce. Such inconveniences, however, were minimized by the six minute passing period, the centralized lockers, and the weekly communication breaks.

MODERNITY

Possible suspension of lunch privileges stirs concern of hungry underclassmen

Stephanie Cudnik

Many students at Blue Valley become legal adults (age 18) during their senior year. If they are considered adults in the eyes of the law, they should be regarded as adults at BVHS.

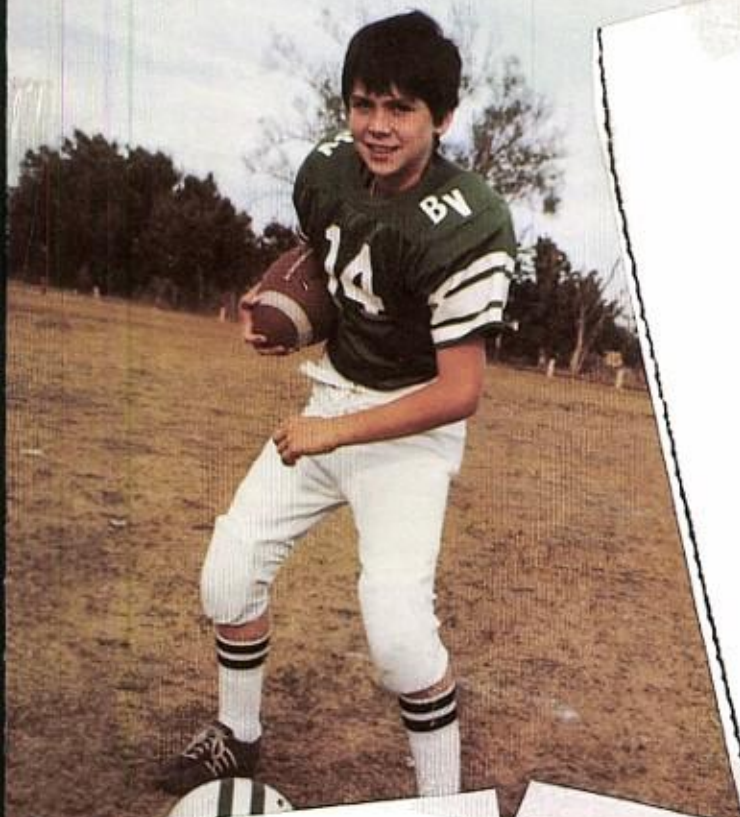

Ever since Blue Valley opened in 1972, seniors have been given the special privilege of eating lunch. Now that a larger and more commons area is scheduled for the 1984-85 school year, the school might want to stop open lunch.

As everyone can imagine, there is an uproar among not only new students but among lower classmen as well. There is no reason to stop open lunch.

The new commons area is the reason for the halting of open lunch. The school claims that new students are not getting their fifth cused of drinking when out on open lunch. Many of you have ever seen a senior around the halls in a drunken state. The drinking age will be 21. Students drink on the side.

SENIORS

After twelve years of struggling through grade school, middle school, and high school together, we have finally become Seniors. Although as the school year was about to begin, this concept was difficult to grasp, the moment a freshman was first identified in the hallways, we realized that we were, in fact, the leaders of BVHS.

Our class successfully graduated from both middle School and high School without being divided between an old and new school; consequently, the class of '85 has developed a unity and camaraderie that is special to each student. We were the last class to have the privilege of open lunch, and most of us took full advantage of the opportunity to leave school. Due to the construction and expansion of BVHS, we were permitted to park our cars in the lower lot designated for "Seniors only". We also received our lockers together in the new gang locker area.

Our elected class officers were Michael Hurtt-president, Bob Petillo-vice president, Deanna Neal-secretary, and Stephenie Goodwin-treasurer. Also helping to guide our class activities was our new sponsor, Mr. Geraci. Under their leadership, the class of '85 presented the school with an unforgettable Senior gift. We purchased a lighted rotary message sign for the new commons area.

Class secretary, Deanna Neal is "proud of the unique characteristics of our class," and she feels that "the class of '85 has a common bond that is unique from the other graduating classes of the past."

As we prepare to go our separate ways, let each of us remember our friendships at BVHS and all of the good times experienced. Our four years at Blue Valley High School contain many fond memories and will always be special to us.

Stephanie Lynn Siegen: "Don't fool with gravity — it's the law. Shadoobie, doo-wah, and fare-thee-well."

Joseph R. Singleton

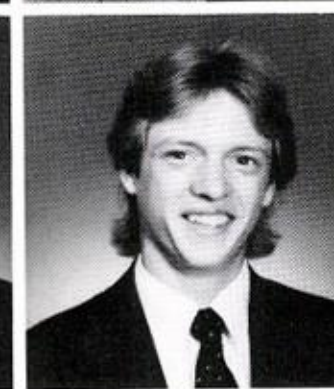

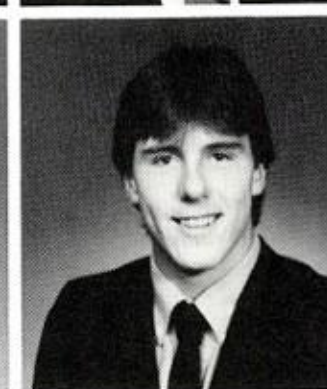

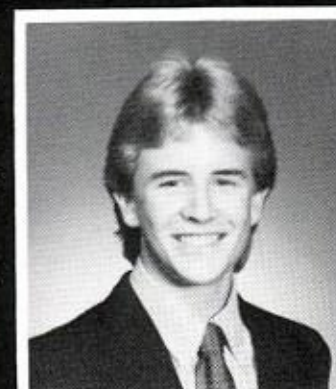

Carolyn Judith Smith

David Smith: "Giant steps are what you take, walking on the Moon."

Kenneth Dale Smith: "When the chips are down, you've got to watch your step."

Mark Smith: "I'm leaving this school with a few last words: it wasn't fun, and good luck underclassmen."

John Patrick Soisson: "These things I have spoken to you that in me you may have peace. In the world you will have affliction. But take courage, I have overcome the world."

* Ralph W. Souders: "And my dreams, they are as empty as my conscience seems to be. I have hours, only lonely; my love is vengeance, that's never free."

Courtenay Sue Starnes: "At last, high school is in the past."

Cynthia D. Stewart

Sharon Anne Stewart: "Can it be that it was all so simple then? Or has time rewritten every line? If we had the chance to do it all again, tell me, would we? could we?"

Deborah Lynn Stomboly

Tammy M. Stout: "Take life one step at a time and enjoy it! You only live once!!"

Curtis Strautman: "I know I am deathless."

Christopher Stephen Strohm: "You only live once, so make the most of what little time we've got. If something makes you feel good, do it!"

Shannon Denise Stuckey: "I may be lots, but I'm making good time."

Amy Lynn Stuhr: "Every now and then you have to say 'What the!?!' It gives you freedom. Freedom brings opportunity; opportunity makes your future."

Michelle Kathryn Taylor: "It is your life. Do with it what you may, but, remember, friends are the key to happiness; so meet 'em and greet 'em."

Brett Thomas

Patricia Thomas: "In the high school halls, in the shopping malls, conform or be cast out."

Jon Thorgaard

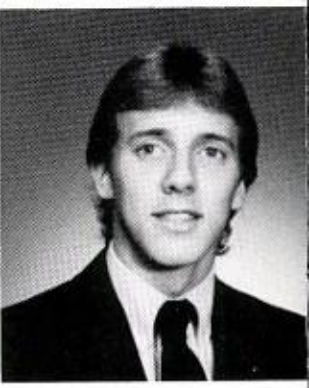

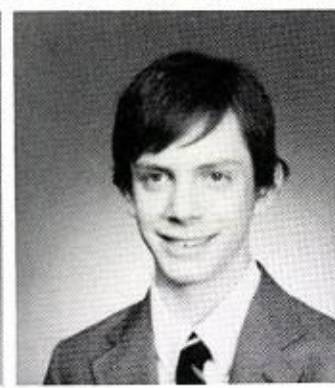

Thomas D. Tindle

Scott Troehler: "We all have a face that we hide away forever, and we take it out and show ourselves when everyone has gone."

Julia A. Vandenberg: "You say I cannot get there from here, Baby, and I don't care where I'm going. Change, nothing stays the same unchained. This is my chance to fly."
 Joseph Vasko: "The key to success is onward and upward."

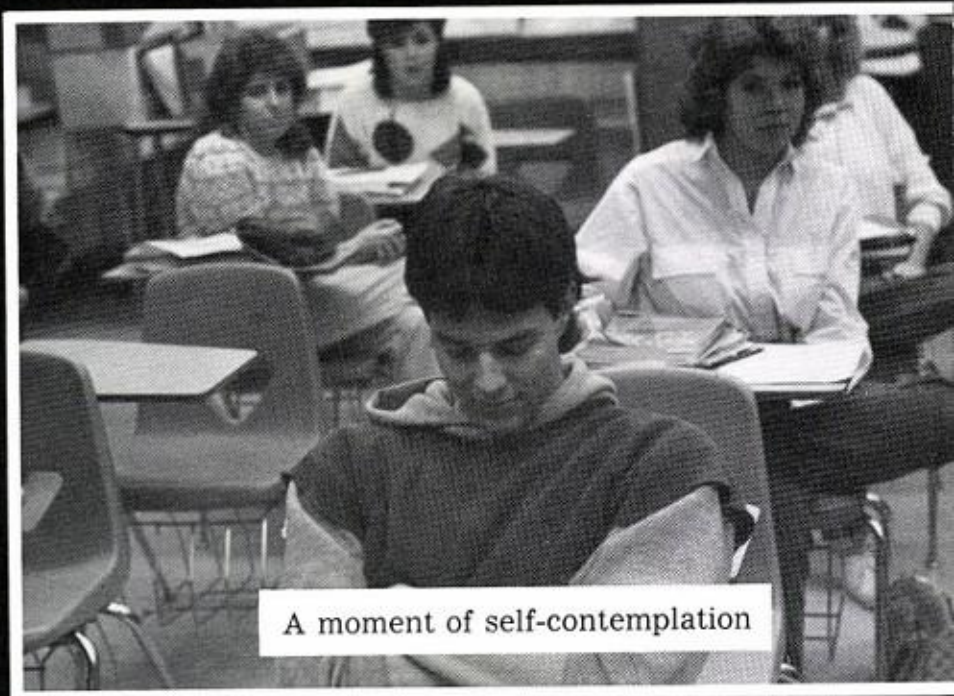

Anshu Vats: "How great it is to have the freedom to dream and the power to make those dreams come true."
 Geoffrey L. Vohs
 Mike W. Walker

Lori Louise Wallace: "Sometimes a shadow dark and cold lays like a mist across the road, but be encouraged by the sight: where there's a shadow, there's a light."

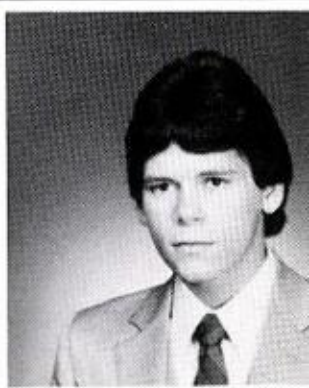

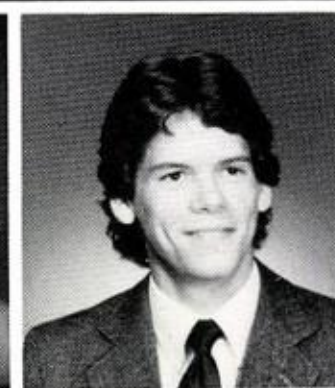

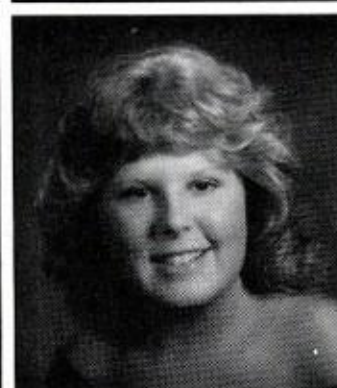

Kristin Leanne Ward: "Thanks for the memories, the laughs, and even the tears. But, most of all, thanks for sharing the past four years. They will not soon be forgotten."

A moment of self-contemplation

Christa Rae Warren: "I don't know, maybe it's me."
 Mark A. Weddle
 Paul T. Weddle: "Stand up on your feet, 'cause your life is short as Hell! You could be dead tomorrow; today may be your last chance to believe in yourself."

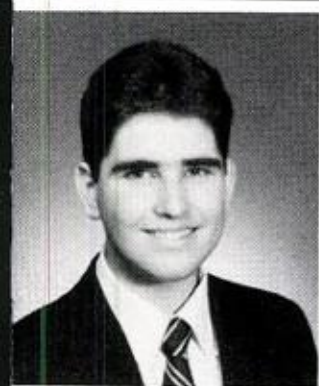

In Memory^o
 1967-1985

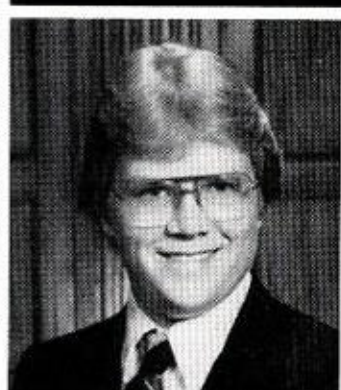

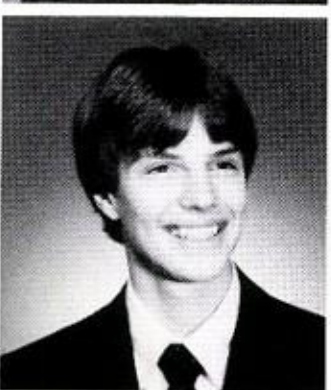

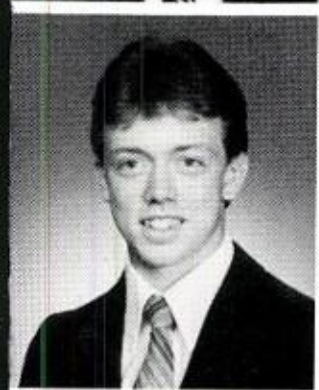

Brad Weiner:
 "Breathe, Breathe in the air —
 Don't be afraid to care —
 Leave but don't leave me
 Look around and choose your own air
 Just breathe."

Jeffrey S. Weiss

Kendall West: "You are what you drive."
 Michelle West: "Man's youth is a wonderful thing: It's so full of anguish and of magic, and he never comes to know it as it is until it has gone from him forever."

Oscar D. West
 Stephen E. White
 David M. Will: "All good things don't necessarily have to come to an end."

"Well, Dr. Abbott, it all started when I walked into the library without a pass and two pieces of I. D. . . ."

Dianne Williams: "You can't always get what you want, but, if you try sometime, you just might find you get what you need."

Gregory Trevor Williams: "There's a heel in every loaf of bread."

Janelle Marie Williams: "Dreams are important, but don't get carried away. Friends are vital, so don't let them slip away."
 DeAnna Wilson: "Don't walk in front of me, I may not follow. Don't walk behind me, I may not lead. Just walk beside me and be my friend."
 Stephen David Wilson

Thirza Winkelmeyer
 Barry A. Woodlock: "The party's over, but still goes on."

In Memory

Brad Weiner

Throughout these four years, the Class of 1985, along with savoring a multitude of joyful moments, has also had to persevere through times of grief. The death of Brad Weiner this winter confronted the student body, faculty, and administration with a great tragedy. During his life, Brad touched all who knew him in a unique way. Fond memories of him shall long endure.

But I haven't even got to the punchline yet!

buying a ring from a mail-order company.

Every year, many students buy these class rings. This is a tradition that has been around for many years, and will most likely continue to be a tradition for many years to come. Usually students buy their rings from a mail-order company.

If a class ring is purchased from a jewelry store, the student has the advantage of a wide selection of rings, plus he/she may have corrections made at any time, and usually free of charge. Class rings are available in a wide variety of styles and prices. A basic ring usually costs about $60-$70, and includes the stone, (usually a birthstone) band, choice of activity symbol on the band, mascot, year of graduation and sometimes the student's name. A more expensive ring can cost up to $475, and is constructed of a higher quality of gold, a more expensive stone and a wider, more variety of

Led by its officers and a new sponsor, Truman Snow, the Class of '86 kept busy this year raising money for prom and participating in many other activities. The first fund-raising event was the traditional magazine sale, which succeeded in providing the majority of the prom money. Other fund-raisers, including a dance after the first home basketball game, were also organized.

The pack, a Blue Valley tradition, was re-activated by the Junior Class this year to promote school spirit and to support the basketball team. Each home game was designated as a special night, such as Hawaiian Night and Hoe Down Night, and the bleachers were often filled with students in black and gold bermuda shorts, yelling cheers and chants with Pack leaders and cheerleaders.

Among the highlights of the junior year was the defeat of the seniors in the Powder

Junior Class Officers: J. Stanton, E. Ralph, D. Jacobson, and G. Brown

Puff football game. Coached by Todd Bukaty, Danny Miller, Eric Ralph, and John Shaffer and dressed in pink and green, the junior girls emerged victorious from the overtime game, proving who rules at Blue Valley.

Juniors continued to be active this year, participating in clubs and sports in school and studying, working, and partying out of school (although not necessarily in that order). Each student looked forward to the weekend, when he could spend time with friends, visit Minsky's after games, and go to movies, concerts, and Comets' games.

As the year began to draw to a close, the Juniors' hard work paid off. May 11th brought the long-awaited prom, which was held at the new Overland Park Marriott. The prom provided a perfect ending to a special year filled with many fond memories of the past, along with many expectations for the approaching Senior Year.

Raising money for their prom, surviving the ordeal of the lunchroom and enjoying not being freshmen were just some of the highlights of this year's Sophomore Class. Once again, they had to deal with crowded halls; although the locker area provided extra room. Four more mobile classrooms also increased the complaints of "My hair is so straight now!" or "Do we have to go outside?"

Gaining entrance to their junior year was one of the main goals of the Class of '87, as was establishing a decent sense of seniority over the Class of '88. Concerts, such as Bruce Springsteen, Kiss and Rod Stewart; movies like "Purple Rain", "Ghostbusters" and "Revenge of the Nerds", and local sporting events (Comets, Chiefs and Kings games) occupied much of the social time. Of course, BVHS basketball, football and soccer games were also of major importance to many students.

What's so special or extraordinary about being a sophomore? "not being a freshmen!" said Steve Clamons. Rebecca Dial said "It will put us two years closer to graduating." Amy Spini said "Well, at least one year is over with and I hope that next year will be better." Obviously, sophomores are concerned with getting out of high school and going on with their vocational or educational careers.

As the year winded down, many sophomores looked back at the rowdiness and carefree spirit that has shaped much of their lives. With the help of Mr. Prater, the new class sponsor, the sophomore class finished their second year in high school with flying colors(black and gold, of course). Looking forward to two more years at Blue Valley, the Class of '87 hopes for many more challenges and accomplishments.

NEEDS FIRST

As little Joe Freshman approached the structure in the wheatfields they call Blue Valley High School, a thousand thoughts ran through his mind. Would he be able to find all his classes? What would his teachers be like? Would there be any good looking girls (or guys, for that matter)? Would he panic if some of those huge seniors decided to make putty out of his face?

The first day of high school was, for most freshman, a day filled with excitement, fear, and attempts at giving off that aura of "coolness" so that upperclassmen would have no legitimate reason to pick on them. After three years of dealing with the middle school's strict administration, one freshman commented that he enjoyed the freedom of the high school and being with older people. Also much welcomed were the vending machines, a greater variety of courses, and a less restrictive dress code.

Academically, along with finding the classes much more challenging and the teachers more demanding, most freshman discovered that instructors treated them more like adults. Students were permitted, for example, to walk to lunch by themselves (a step up from being escorted at the middle schools).

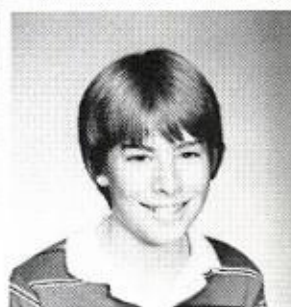

Adjusting to the rigors of high school took up the better part of a freshman's early days, and some even managed to accomplish this with style and ease. After the first week, it became a rarity for a freshman to accidentally stroll into a class other than his own, while the maps of the high school, which some freshman clutched so tightly as they groped through the hallways, were soon filed in the nearest trash receptacle. By year's end, members of the Class of '88 were well known and respected for their enthusiasm and involvement.

Counseling alters name, services remain same

Dan Rebmann

Student _____

Even though the counseling department has changed its name to Student Service Center (SSC), the services offered are basically the same, according to Bob Soptic, who said that "problems" are being addressed to the overcrowding at Blue Valley is affecting SSC as well. Soptic said that the ideal student to counselor ratio is 200-1. Currently BV has approximately a 300-1 ratio.

Another major goal of the SSC is to orient the new students. A program has been established so new students can get to know each other and communicate their feelings and adjustment at BV. By the fourth week of school Soptic hopes that every new student will at least know the names of his or her classmates in a given hour.

The SSC has also been working with administrative to establish a leaders' committee of 25 students from each class to help set and establish communication between faculty and students.

FACULTY

Blue Valley's faculty represents a broad range of personalities and talents assembled to provide quality education for the leaders of tomorrow. These individuals, although often not adequately recognized for their contributions, assume a central role in promoting the District's overall excellence.

One of the most salient attributes of Blue Valley instructors has been their intense dedication to the teaching task. Faculty members plan their curriculum far in advance to assure the fulfillment of each course's objectives and devote extensive time before and after school to help students keep up with the academic pace. "Time on task" is now a commonly emphasized expression among teachers, many of which, like mathematics chairman, Mike Koehler, and science chairperson, Jan Cy respond with emphatic displeasure to class interruptions.

The majority of the faculty, like English teacher, Rita Norton have strived "to foster critical and independent thinking" in their students. Toward this end, teachers have put forth substantial effort to extend instruction beyond the textbook to the realm of analysis and discussion. Through his role as "Devil's advocate," for example, government teacher, Steve Geraci, often lures his students into heated arguments over such issues as abortion, women's rights, and liberty versus equality. From such enlightening exchanges of opinion, no student can ultimately emerge a loser.

Many Blue Valley instructors, finally, have transcended their teaching duties to serve as activity sponsors. It is through this role that the faculty has extended itself to students outside the classroom to explicitly communicate that they care.

FACULTY

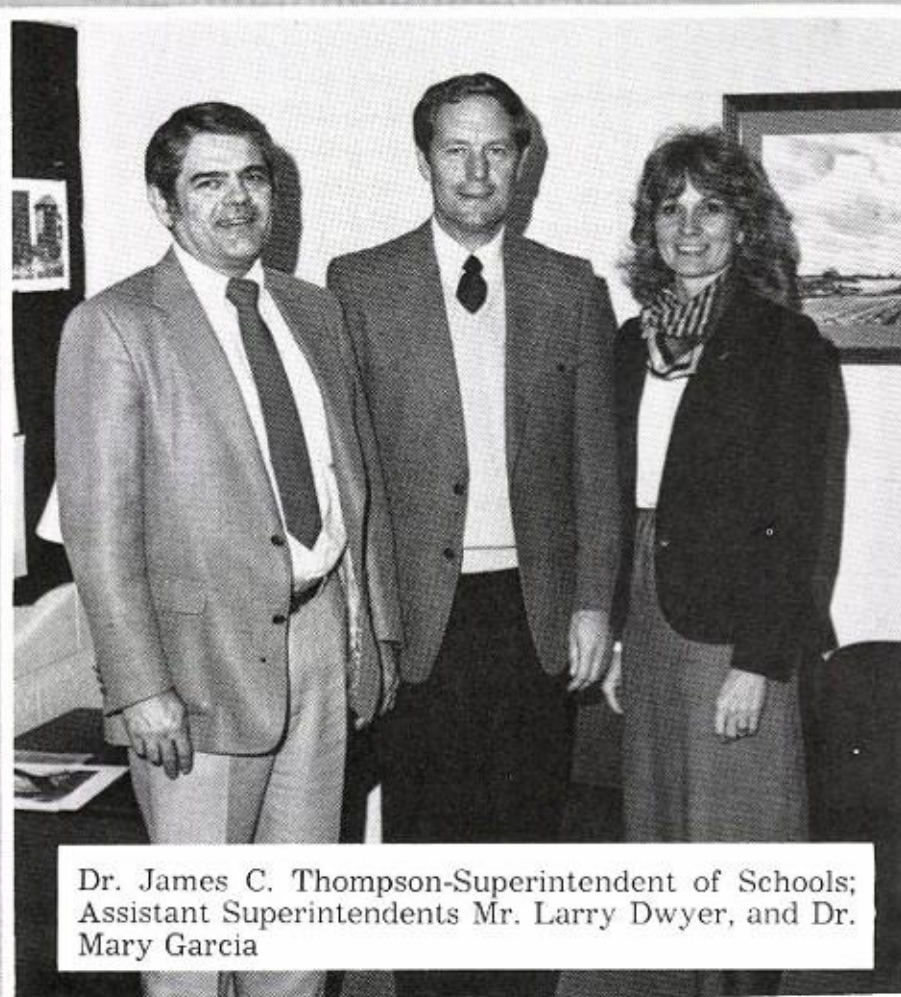

FACULTY

The Board of Education and Administration of Blue Valley School District are very proud of the accomplishments of the Blue Valley High School students and faculty during the 1984-85 school year. We believe that your successes are directly related to the enthusiastic support and involvement of Blue Valley's students, faculty, staff, and parents. We hope that the educational experiences provided will continue to be of the highest quality and that students will look back on their years at Blue Valley and feel accomplishments and satisfaction.

Best wishes to the Class of 85! We have appreciated your leadership in academics and activities. We are confident that you will continue to distinguish yourselves in future years.

Best Wishes for your future successes,

On behalf of the faculty of Blue Valley High School, I would like to extend to you the class of 1985, the very warmest regards and a sincere feeling of gratitude and appreciation for your contributions to B.V.H.S. during your brief four year sojourn.

You will always be remembered for your sense of responsibility, dedication to the task at hand, and willingness to assist those in need. Your accomplishments in the classroom and beyond the school day serve as bench marks for those who follow.

I applaud your achievements and wish you well in future endeavors. Your accomplishments, those accrued and those to come, have and will be received with collective pride by your school, your parents, and your community.

Anxious for Prom? Nervous about the biggest night of your entire high school career? Would you like a rehearsal, a trial run? Student Council is sponsoring "Morp," a Prom in reverse. Here, the girls are encouraged to ask the guys, and everyone can dress casually.

Morp will be two weeks before Prom, on April 28. It will last from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. Unlike Prom, Morp will be held in the elegant BV commons, with the famous KY102 Randy Raley as D.J.

Although girls are encouraged to ask the guys, they are not required to. Tickets will be $2 per couple, for each person without

Forensics starts season with new coach

Carpenter

For the Forensics team to be under the new coach, Ann Carpenter. This is Carver's first year at Blue Valley, she says. Topeka High School. In addition to coaching Forensics, Carver also advises the newspaper staff and teaches Journalism I, and Study Skills classes.

Carver says she expects a lot from the class, but she also plans for a lot of fun.

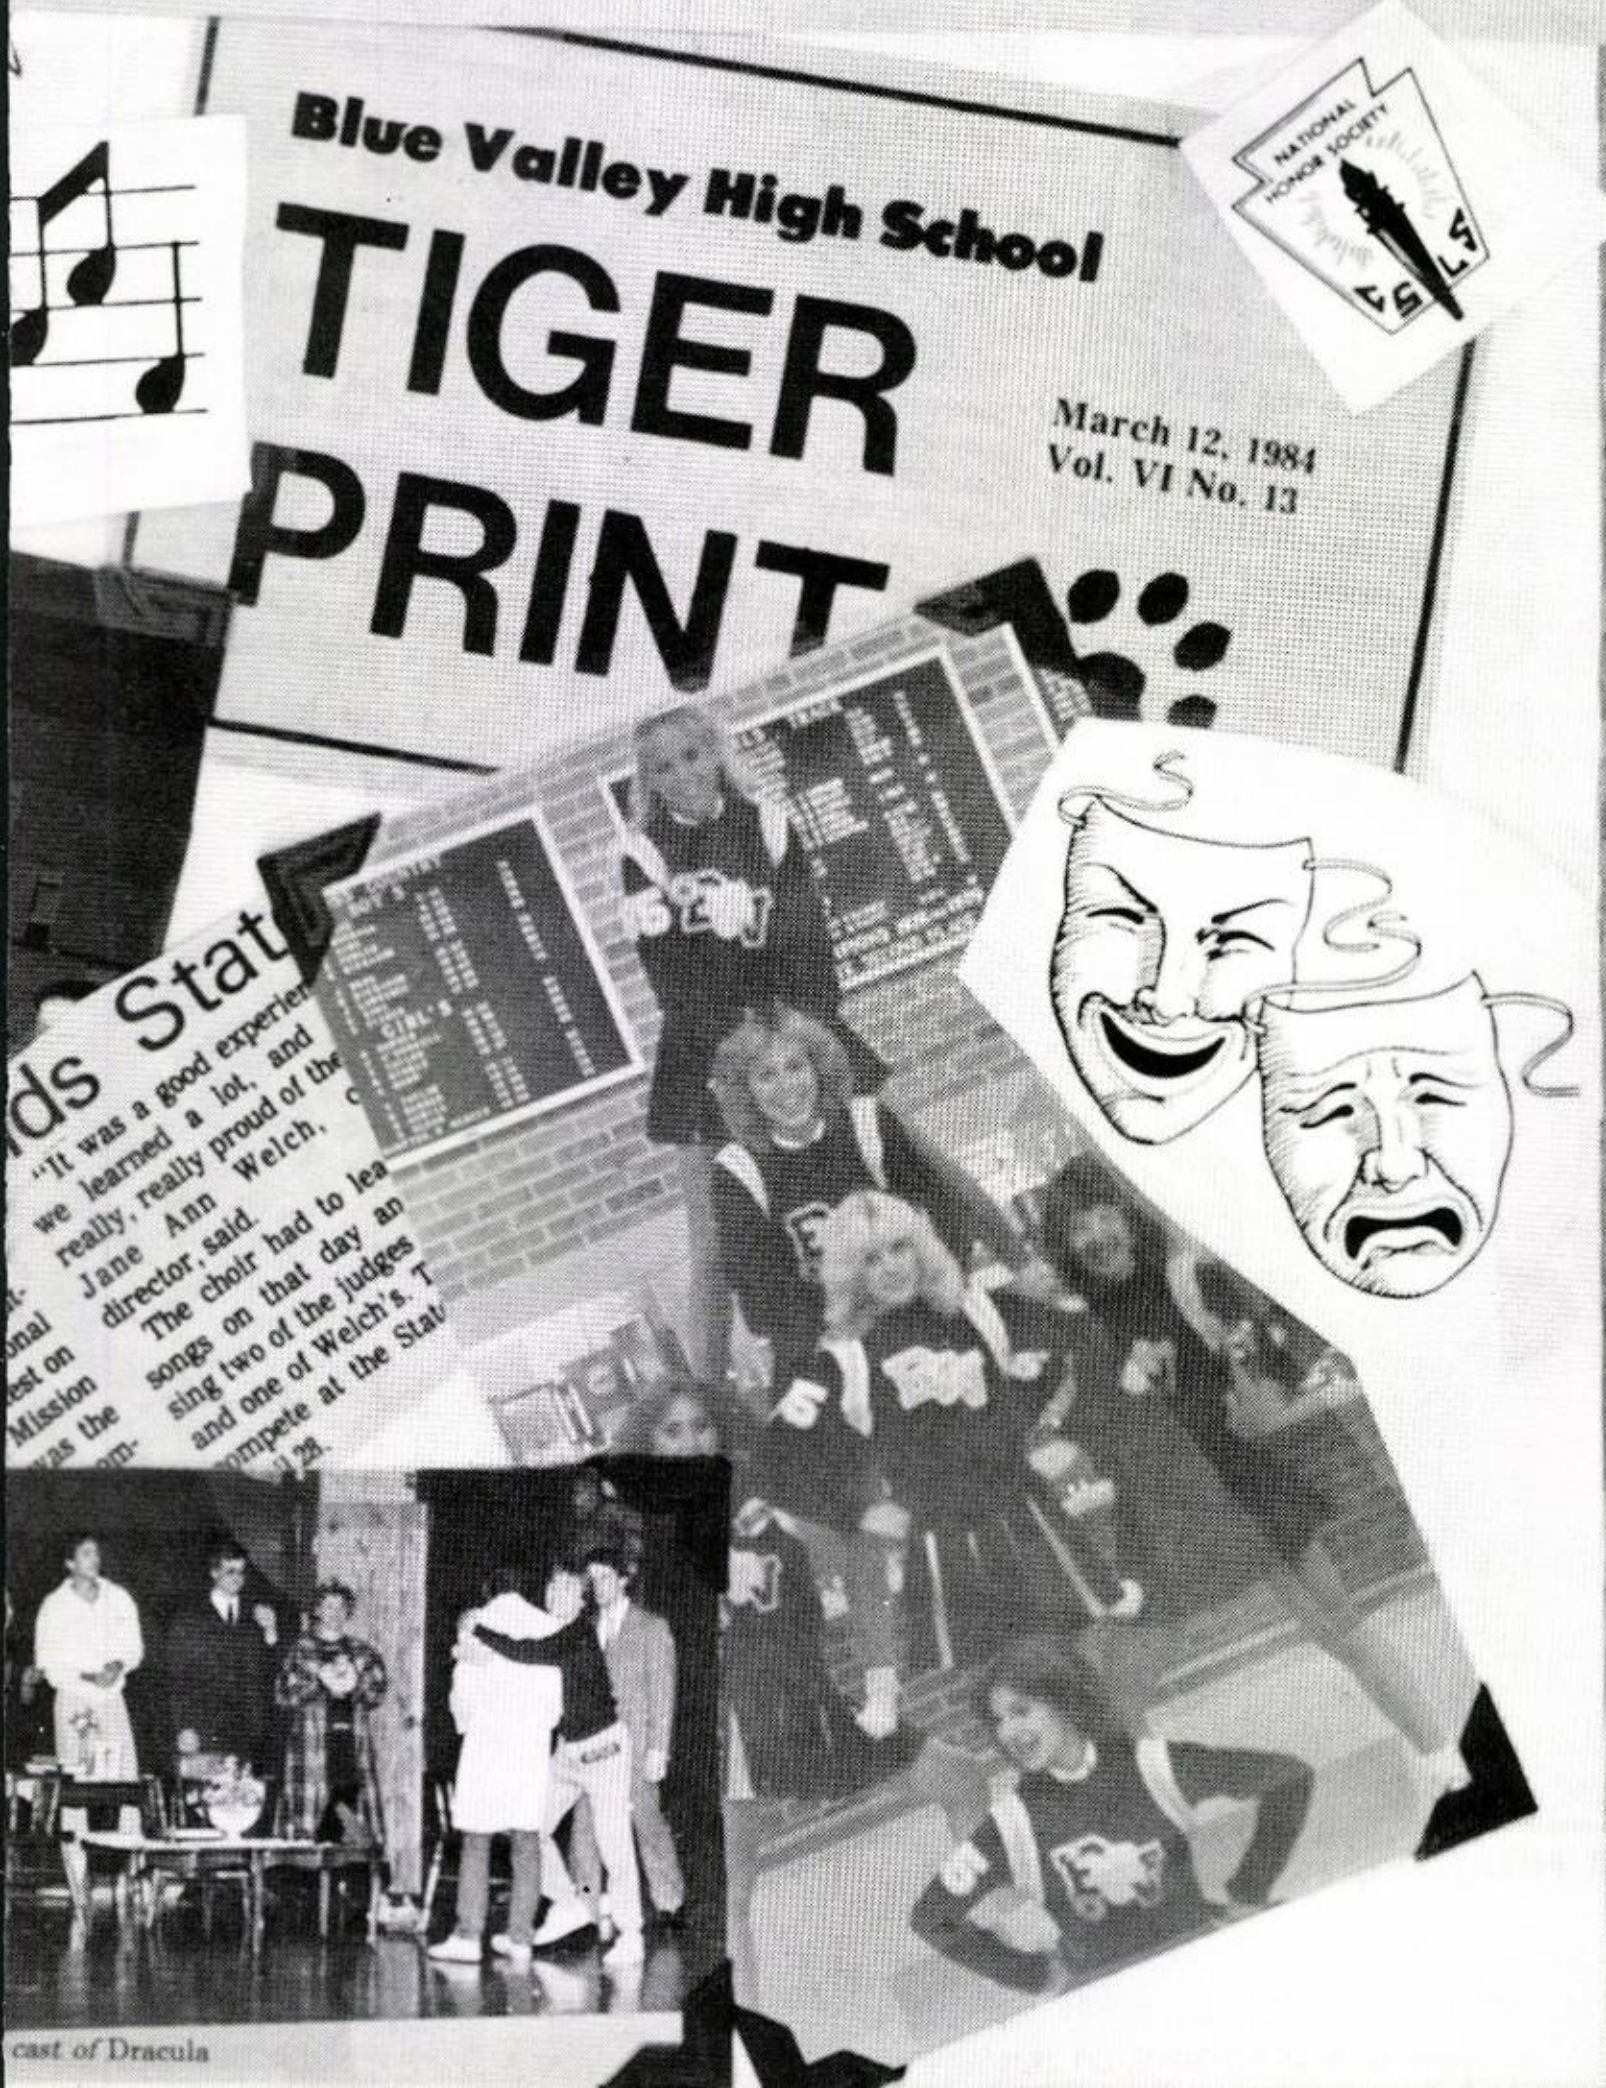

Requirements for the class are hard work during class hours and participation in four weekend tournaments.

Although Carver has never worked with the National Forensics League (NFL) she looks forward to an excellent year.

"I expect a lot from the experience," Carver commented.

The first tournament that the Forensics team plans to enter is being held at Shawnee Mission East, Feb. 4.

ACTIVITIES

HOMECOMING

Blue Valley's 1984 Homecoming proved to be extremely successful. Not only did Blue Valley defeat Belton in the football game, but all the Homecoming activities went very smoothly. Karen Koerper was named as queen during the halftime of the game, and Danny Martin was crowned as king at the Homecoming dance afterwards.

During the halftime of the football game, all of the female royalty was announced.

They were driven around the track in Corvettes and escorted to the center of the field by their fathers. The queen candidates were Christine Caso, Amy Lee, Karen Koerper, Dyana Rose, and Caryl Schultz. The Junior class princess was Jill Liechty. Debbie Kading was the Sophomore class princess, and Susan Caso was the Freshman class princess.

The king candidates were Nick Kure, Danny Martin, Scott Ozburn, Brian Rothlisberger, and Brett Round. The Junior class prince was Rob Conway, and the Sophomore class prince was David Swickard. Mike Turner was the Freshman class prince.

The school week preceding Homecoming was Spirit Week. No school was held on Monday, but Tuesday was Hat and Lunch-box Day, Wednesday was Hippie Day, Thursday was Tourist Day, and Friday was Black and Gold Day. A Powder Puff football game was held on Thursday night; the Junior girls defeated the Senior girls 9-8 in overtime. Boys acted as cheerleaders and drill team. Afterwards, a bonfire was held on the upper football field.

SWEETHEARTS

Reaching a plateau with an exhilarating triumph over Ottawa High School and the crowning of the senior king and queen, Sweetheart and Spirit Week proved to be extremely effective in evoking student enthusiasm and participation this year.

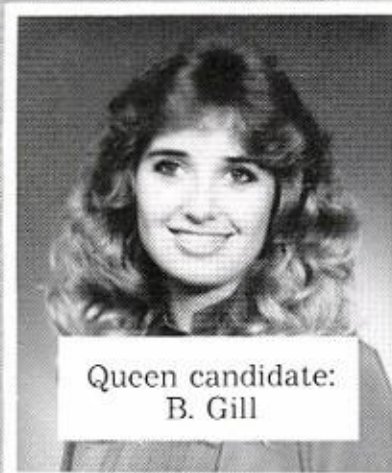

Spirit Week began very favorably, in the minds of most students, at least, with an unexpected snow day which the administration, faculty, and student body all vigorously joined in celebrating. Following this respite, Spirit Week's more anticipated activities resumed with Beach Day on Tuesday, Ski Bum Day on Wednesday, Boxer Short Day on Thursday, and Black and Gold Day on Friday.

Friday evening brought the Ottawa basketball game and the remainder of Sweetheart's activities. At halftime, the class princesses and queen candidates promenaded across the gym, escorted by their fathers. As each royalty member approached

The male royalty were recognized at the Sweetheart Dance which followed the rousing game. Escorted by their mothers, the king candidates and princes assembled in the commons to hear their accomplishments and the identity of the Sweetheart King. Chris Cacioppo was named successor to the sweetheart throne and joined his Queen and last year's couple for a spotlight dance. All the candidates, princes, and princesses then paired up for another dance, after which the spectators took the floor for the remainder of the special evening.

FALL PLAY

As this year's fall play, Blue Valley Theater performed Herbert E. Swayne's melodrama, "The Curse of an Aching Heart" (or "Trapped in a Spider's Web"). Being a melodrama, audience participation was elicited in the form of boos and hisses for the villain, Windemere Hightower, sympathetic oohs and ahs for the heroine, Melody Lane, and rousing hurrahs for the hero, Lucius Goodenough.

The drama's plot centers upon the Schemings of Windemere Hightower to take control of the Abernathy's "None Such" ranch. Hightower pursues this end by flattering the women, bribing Hiram Abernathy with his darkest secret, and purchasing Lucius Goodenough's friendship with a farm loan for him and his love, Melody Lane.

As in all melodrama's, the villain's schemes collapse under the weight of his own lies, and Hightower is forced to confess

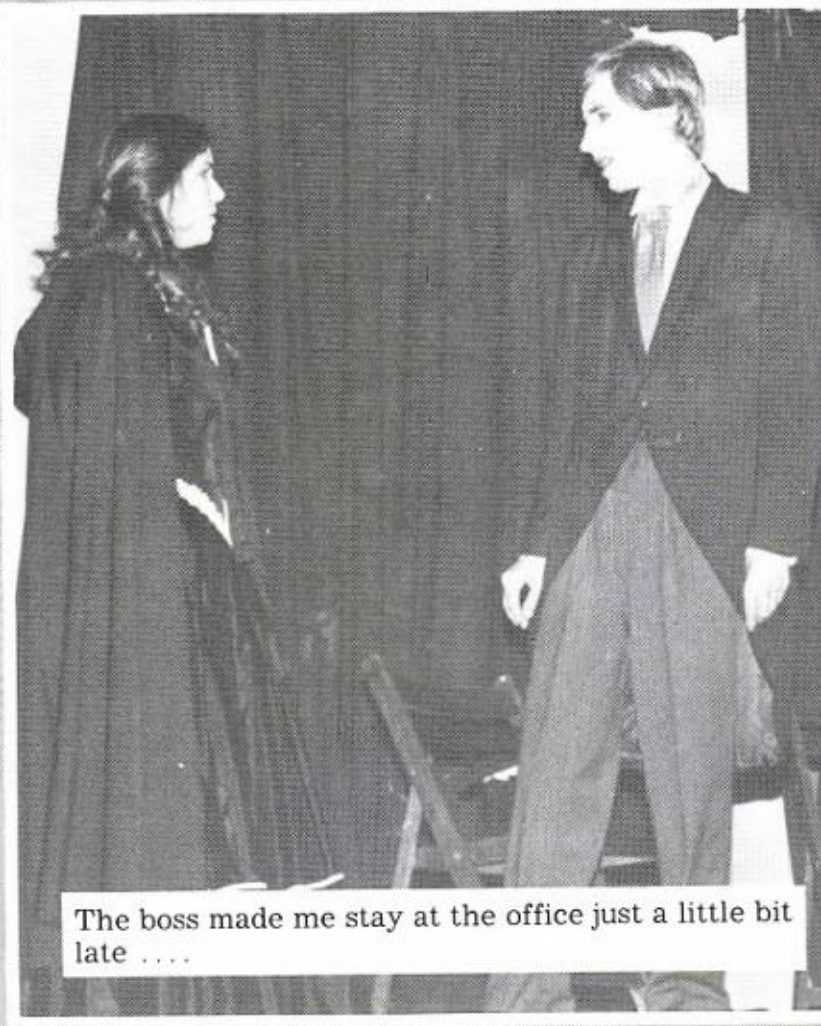

Well, your husband just came over for a visit ... thats right just a visit.

I wonder if he noticed my broach?

He really is a very nice young man

The boss made me stay at the office just a little bit late at he has falsified his marriage to Melody, revelation that heals her aching heart and lows she and Lucius to be wed. To add to e happiness, Aloysius, the Abernathy's ng lost son, returns home. Now a wealthy an, he is able to pay off the mortgage and us saves the ranch. Judging by audience response, the play's st, crew, and director, Roger Shepard, de-erve praise for an excellent production.

DEBATE

Coached by Mr. Max Brown, the more than forty Blue Valley debaters completed another favorable season. After extensive research of this year's topic, "Resolved that the United States will provide employment to all Americans living in poverty," the participants organized cases supporting a variety of viewpoints. The topic, especially timely in light of last November's presidential elections, was argued primarily from a political standpoint, however.

Beginning in September, the team members attended weekend tournaments at such area high schools as Olathe North and South and all the Shawnee Mission schools. At these events, Blue Valley debaters won many rounds and consequently numerous medals and trophies. The debate team also hosted a tournament in November, whose success was secured by the efforts of the entire team.

6Q lineup

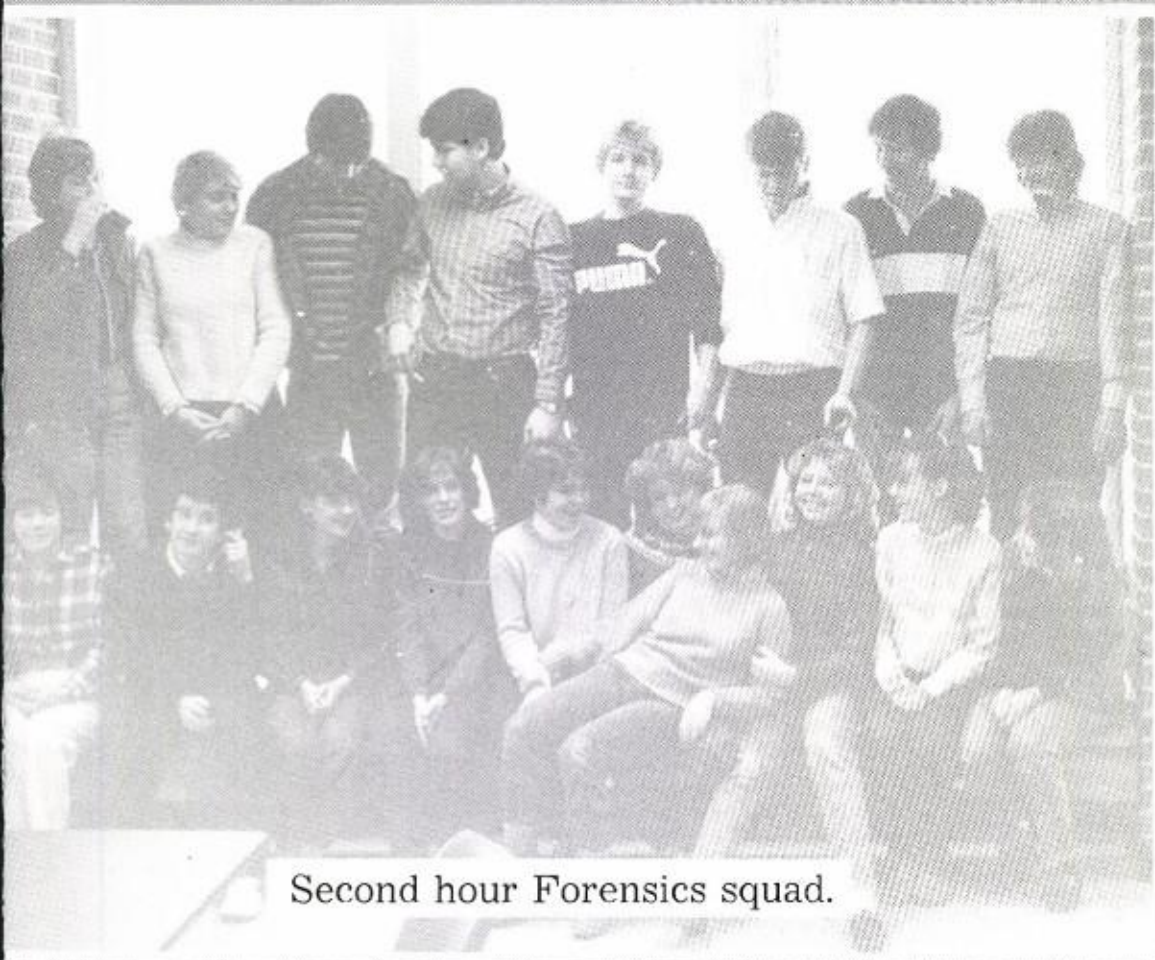

I'm not weird, I'm in character.

Under the experienced direction of Mr. Max Brown, an accomplished actor and producer, the forensics squad overcame the resupposed handicap of being half-composed of novices to complete a very successful year.

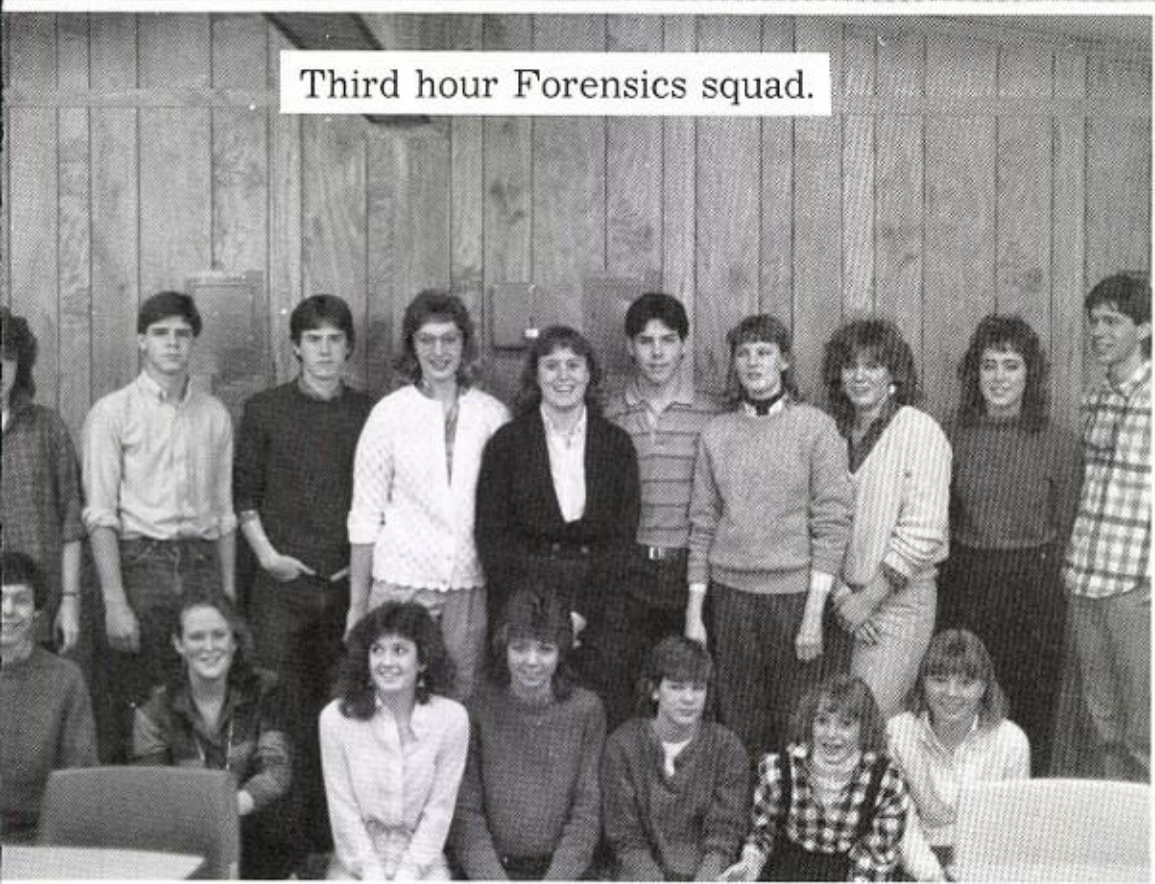

The season began early in February, by which time squad members were expected to have selected topics, written speeches, chosen pieces, and rehearsed repeatedly for valuation by tournament judges. Although the limit of three weeks preparation time may seem extremely cumbersome, returning team member, Jill Hendrickson, stated that "the end justifies the means," in that intensity of preparation is worthwhile when one's presentation is well-received.

In addition to these pursuits, forensicators faced the responsibility of hosting a February tournament, which proved to be as successful as last year's, if not more so.

SCIENCE RESEARCH

Science Research class is an opportunity for ten science-talented seniors, working closely with Ms. Jan Cyr, to undertake and complete an extensive science research project that involves both in-depth library and laboratory research. Each student is expected to enter his project in at least one science competition; most students chose to enter the Greater Kansas City Science and Engineering Fair where they did very well.

In addition to spending hours researching and experimenting, the close-knit group enjoyed listening to loud music in their private room. They chose to adopt Tri-Lambda as their official symbol.

Categories is a series of academic trivia competitions which test students' knowledge and quickness on questions from areas such as history, literature, science, math, and current events. The competitions between area schools are televised on cable TV. This year the team also competed in tournaments sponsored by Topeka West, S. M. Northwest, and S. M. East; the team's depth enabled them to do well at all of these. Much of this depth came from the four returning members of the team: Eric Bunting, Robert Hegeman, Warner Losh, and John Soisson. Informal practice sessions were held every Monday after school.

Categories sponsor Mrs. Judy Machacek said, "I think this is a great opportunity for the participants to compete in academics for fun."

YEARBOOK

This year's Reflections staff overcame great difficulties and produced one of Blue Valley's best and most complete yearbooks ever. The staff had to work together in order to meet the many deadlines and to stay within the $20,000 budget.

After the staff was selected last spring, they met several times over the summer and began preparations for the upcoming year.

During the school year, the staff met every day during fourth hour to work on their sections. With the assistance and superb leadership of Mrs. Nancy Kissel, advisor, and Michele Garlett, editor, the fourteen other staff members were able to fulfill all their responsibilities which included selling advertising and yearbooks, organizing layouts, writing divisional introductions, creating picture aptions, taking and developing photographs, and helping with yearbook distribution.

In addition to all these responsibilities, the yearbook staff personnel adopted a new tradition this year. They produced a yearbook supplement which contains spring sports and activities. The twenty-page supplement will be distributed early next fall. Graduating seniors can pick up their copy this August before they go off to school.

"Although initially we encountered some difficulties, I believe that we were able to produce the highest quality yearbook yet, mainly because the staff was willing to help each other out and assume responsibilities other than their own," Garlett said.

NEWSPAPER

Once again this year, the Tiger Print provided the Blue Valley student body with in-depth information about school and student life. Continuing to evolve, this year's Tiger Print improved dramatically by covering a wide variety of topics, delving into all aspects of student life, and becoming much more consistent. This improvement in consistency can in part be traced to the change in printer to the Blue Valley Gazette.

Angie Goldblatt, junior and editor of the Tiger Print, said of the changes, "We were trying to be professional but not boring, informative but still entertaining. Overall, we feel we have been much more creative."

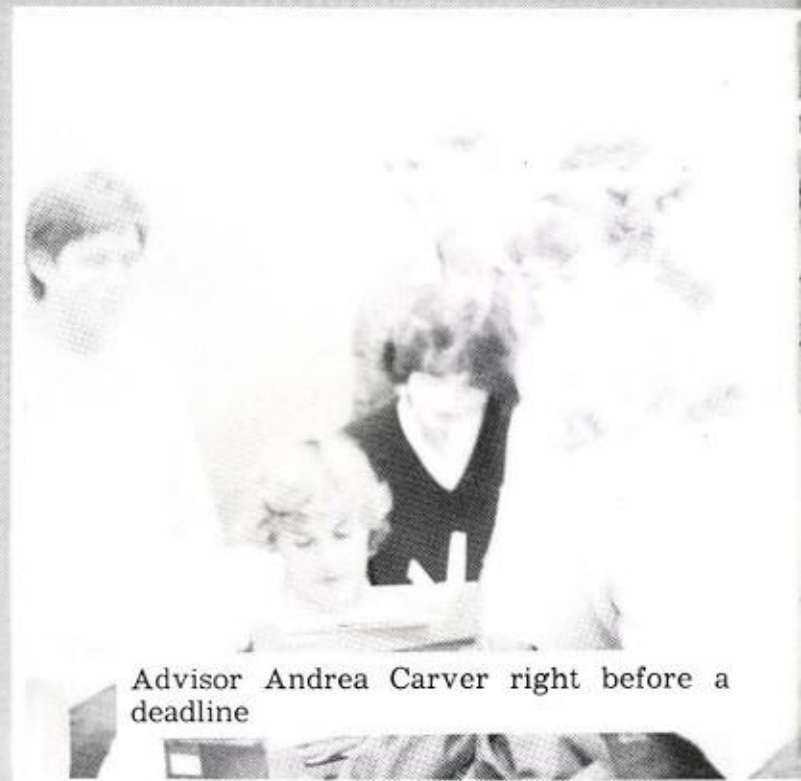

Miss Andrea Carver, serving as advisor for the second year, said that the twenty-one staff members did not miss a deadline in producing the biweekly paper. This year the staff produced fifteen regular editions.

The newspaper staff members met as a class every school day during fifth hour. They used this time to fulfill their many responsibilities which included originating story ideas, writing the stories, designing and laying out the pages, taking and developing photographs, writing all headlines and captions, selling advertising, and distributing the newspapers to all the classes during fifth hour.

Looking back on the year, Carver said, "Overall, the staff had pride in their publication, and most of them were willing to work beyond the requirements to produce an exceptional paper."

STUDENT COUNCIL

This year's Student Council, along with pursuing its conventional goals of representing the student body and organizing various charitable and entertaining activities, adopted several new responsibilities.

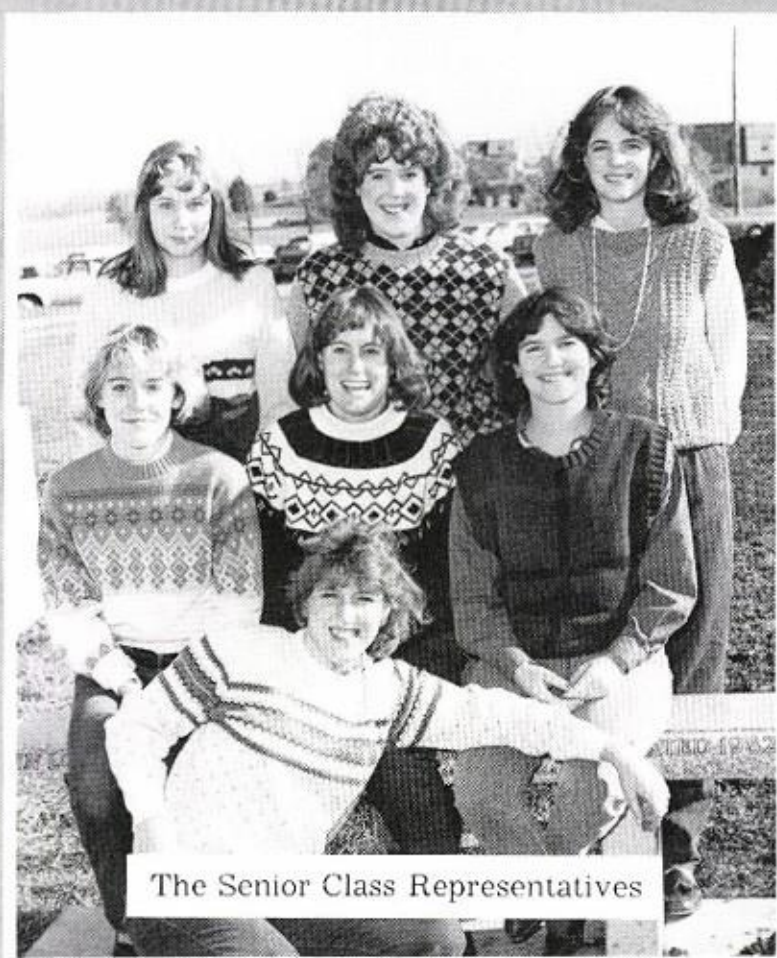

The addition of nearly two hundred new students this year prompted the initiation of several programs designed to alleviate many of the difficulties associated with entering a new school. Prior to the year's beginning, for example, StuCo organized new student parties for individual classes and a freshmen orientation. The New Student Committee additionally helped to reach out to the high school's new members.

1984 brought another new tradition to Blue Valley. StuCo sponsored a semi-formal Winter Wonderland Charity Dance in the new commons, which required students to bring nonperishable food items as a cover charge. Other charitable endeavors included blood drives and other food drives.

The Student Council responded to the completion of the new commons area by purchasing plants and decorating a Christmas tree. The character and increased warmth added by these features made them welcome additions to the structure. The Council also perpetuated its emphasis upon improving communication among students, faculty members, and administrators and elevating school spirit. The most visible manifestations of this pursuit were the painted hallway trash cans designed to encourage greater pride in Blue Valley's appearance.

Cindy Eckert, as StuCo president, played a vital role in supervising the Council's projects, although she commented that its goals would not have been achieved without the help of all the representatives.

The New Student Committee

A new organization in Blue Valley's cultural sphere, the Blue Valley Art Club, owes its emergence to a dedicated group of artists and art enthusiasts, headed by Senior Rodney Gist.

The Club, sponsored by Mrs. Norman and assisted by Mrs. Hein, was established to promote the interest and involvement of Blue Valley students, teachers, and community members in art. So as not to limit membership to artists alone, the Club is open to all students desiring to work for the fulfillment of its goals.

This year's goals, according to Rod Gist, included painting murals for the new commons and the swimming pool area, and obtaining artwork for the high school. The painting of student faces on days of varsity basketball games provided much of the funds required for these endeavors.

ART CLUB

KAYETTES

Under the presidency of Cathy Dunn, the Kayettes expanded their activities and enthusiasm this year. The fifty members supplemented the traditional fundraisers of selling Christmas candy and school directories with a spring sale of rock 'n' roll T-shirts, which provided support for the group's various service projects.

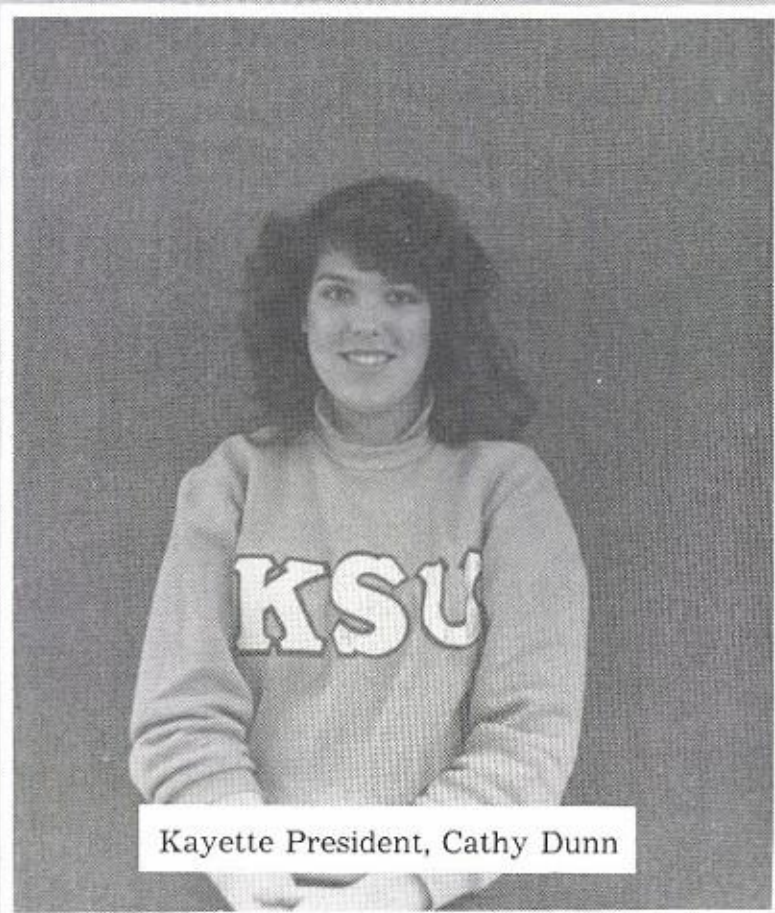

Some such projects included the purchase of Christmas gifts and dinner for a local needy family, the presentation of their annual Christmas gift to the Board of Education, the supervision of an Easter egg hunt at the School of the Deaf, the furnishing of refreshments for teacher-in-service days, the serving of cookies at "Meet the Teachers Night", and the ushering of graduation.

Although Kayette membership decreased this year, Dunn stated that the decline "made us closer as an organization."

The Blue Valley chapter of the National Honor Society continued its tradition of promoting scholarship, leadership, service, and good character this year. Under the guidance of sponsors Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Gathright, NHS once again placed a special emphasis on community service, an emphasis exemplified by such activities as the Thanksgiving food drive and the volunteer maintenance work at the Ronald McDonald House. The members also spent much time preparing for the initiation of the new membership in mid-March.

To qualify for the National Honor Society, students must have a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.40 and must obtain recommendations from seven teachers and activity sponsors. The Faculty Council then evaluates these recommendations and selects the final membership.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

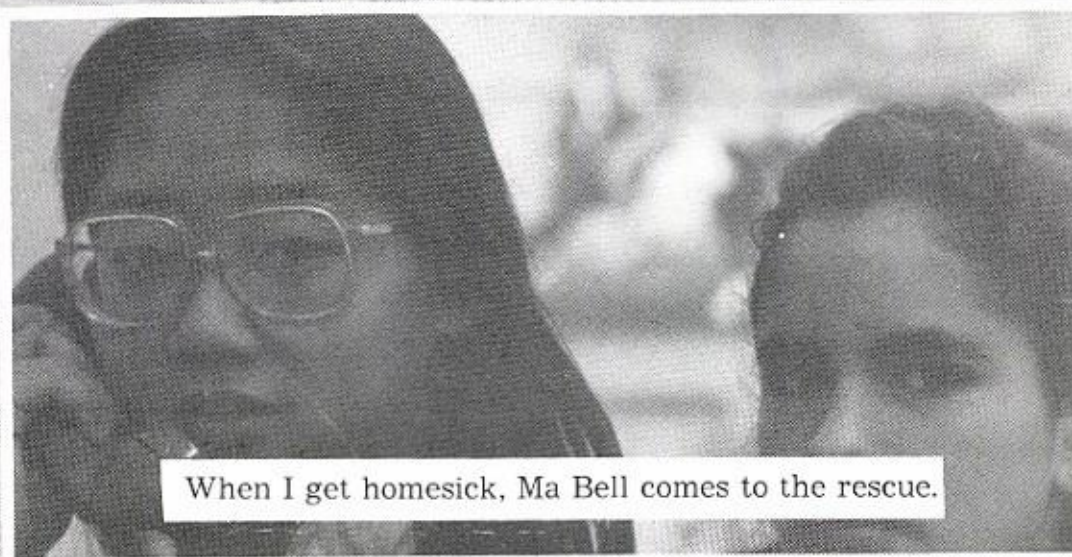

Through the sponsorship of the American Field Service, the Educational Foundation, and Youth for Understanding, eight foreign exchange students became members of the Blue Valley community this year. These lively additions to the student body included Carolyn Smith of Australia, Adolberto Machado of Brazil, Daniel Poblete Reyes of Chile, Jon Thorgaard of Denmark, Cynthia Ko of Hong Kong, Ayumi Itabashi of Japan, Hilde Bredal of Norway, and Jose Arteaga

Pardo of Spain.

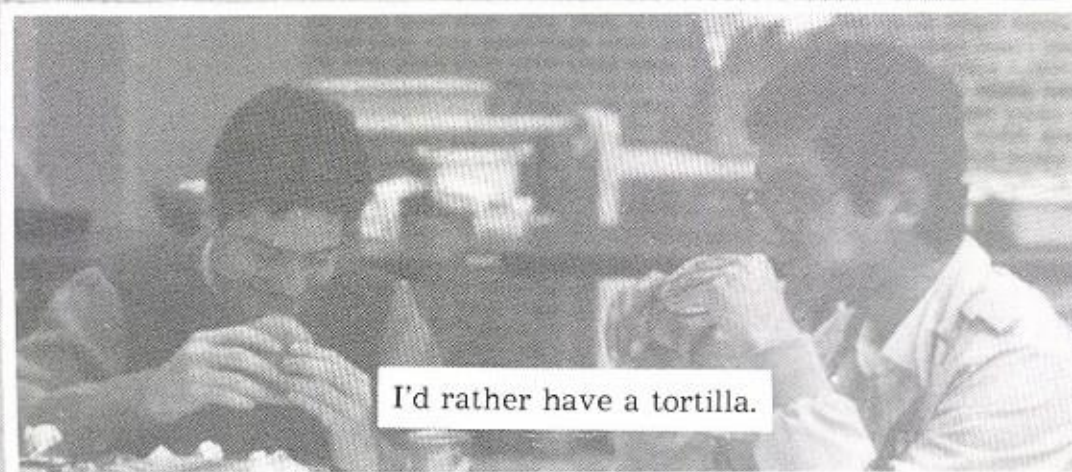

The increased number of exchange students, coupled with a heightened student interest in foreign affairs, led to the establishment of an extremely active International Club. The Club, to maximize opportunities for interaction among the various citizens of the Global Community, sponsored activities such as dances to the mutual benefit of the American and foreign students.

Assembled by students, The Looking Glass, an annual publication comprised of student creative work, is designed to reflect the talents and opinions of the student body. The staff members, with the instruction of Phyllis Monyakula and Phil Ram-bow, overcame their initial inexperience to produce yet another impressive edition.

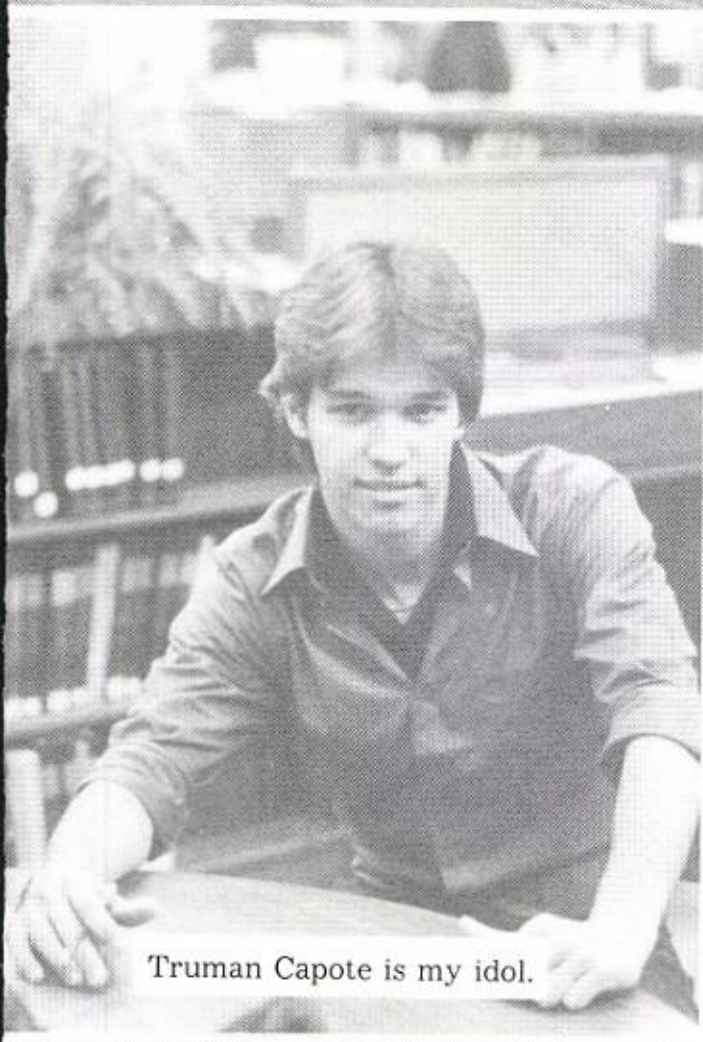

In addition to poems and short stories, The Looking Glass contains samples of student artwork and photography. Publicity, through such events as "The Looking Glass Creativity Contest," helped to encourage students to submit entries and to take a heightened interest in the publication.

This year's Looking Glass has once again given aspiring Blue Valley authors, artists, and photographers the unique satisfaction of having their creative spirit captured in a publication of their very own.

VOCAL MUSIC

Blue Valley's vocal music groups, which include the Freshman Choir, the Girls' Glee Club, the Chorale, the Chamber Singers, and the Lyric Choir, continued to achieve highly at a number of competitions and community festivals.

Although new this year, the Lyric Choir, consisting of a group of carefully selected females, has already earned much recognition. The Chorale similarly experienced an elevation in ability, as participation, especially male participation, which had been somewhat lacking in past years, increased.

Participants from all the vocal music groups manifested their talent at such events as the Blue Valley Fine Arts Festival, the Oktoberfest celebrations, seasonal concerts, the KSHSAA Regional Music Festival for Solos and Small Ensembles, chorale symposia at UMKC, and the yearly EKL Festival.

Vocal music students also auditioned for the honor of singing in the KMEA All-District Choir and the opportunity to participate in the prestigious KSHSAA State Choir. Blue Valley was well-represented in the State Choir, with Stephanie Sieggen (ranked first soprano), Lisa Rephle, Anshu Vats, Kathy Yehle, and Maurice Scheer offered membership.

In order to raise the funds necessary to participate in competitions and workshops and to support this year's musical, "Oklahoma," the vocal music department conducted its annual sale of Christmas cookies and gift wrap, which proved to be very successful.

For Blue Valley's vocal music groups, 1984-85 has been a prosperous and busy year. Mrs. Welch, as vocal music director, indeed deserves praise for her many contributions to the groups' success.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Instrumental music at Blue Valley, in the form of the various band and orchestral groups, flourished once again this year.

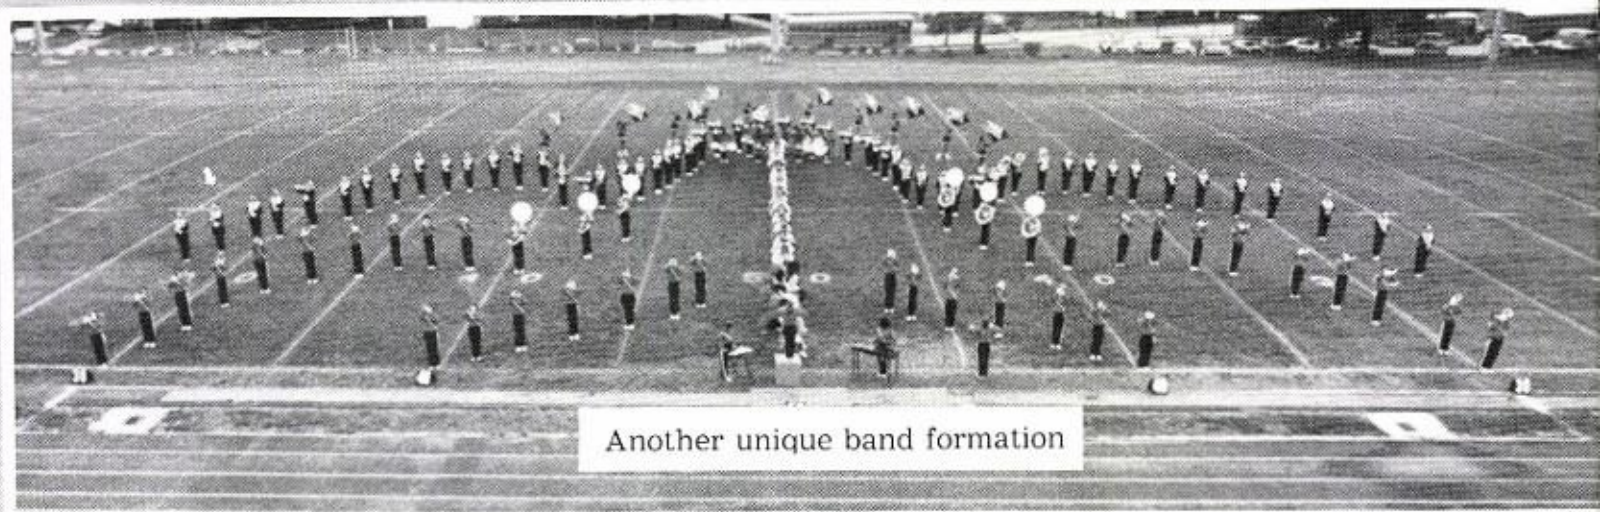

Under the direction of Al Hanna and Jon Robichand, the Stridin' Tiger Pride Marching Band performed impressively at several area marching festivals. At the KMEA District I Marching Festival and the Wichita State University Marching Festival, for example, the marching unit earned top division ratings. The band's talent was also reflected by its success at regional and state marching competitions.

After the football season, during which it participated in pre-game and half-time shows at home games, the marching band separated into the Jazz Band, the Brass Choir, the Orchestra Winds, and the Pep Band. The Pep Band's performances at many of the Varsity basketball games provided enthusiastic and enjoyable music to inspire both players and spectators.

This year's band officers included Kristy Bryars, president; Jerry Howard, vice-president; Jim Andrews, treasurer; and Colleen Kelly and Kate McNaughton, drum majors.

Like the "Stridin' Tigers", Blue Valley's orchestral musicians attended and excelled in a number of district, regional, and state music festivals. The various divisions of the orchestra were String Orchestra, Full Orchestra, and Strolling Strings, all of which have come to assume an increasingly important role in Blue Valley's instrumental music scene.

Among the many requirements and obligations of the instrumental music participants this year were musicianship, rehearsal and performance attendance, group cooperation, and a dedication worthy of praise.

The Flag Corps experienced another excellent season this year, performing impressively during the halftime of many home football and basketball games. The expanded, twelve-member female corps spent fourth period each day choreographing, learning, and polishing their extensive routines under the guidance of sponsor Mrs. Jane Ann Welch.

Over the summer, the girls attended a corps camp in order to further hone their banner-wielding abilities. The group's performance there earned them the camp Spirit Award as well as some valuable experience.

To become a member of the select corps, interested girls are required to audition during the March preceding the marching season.

This year's flag corps officers included the following: Jenice Coffelt, captain, Joey Beiser, co-captain; and Leslie Moret, secretary.

DRILL TEAM

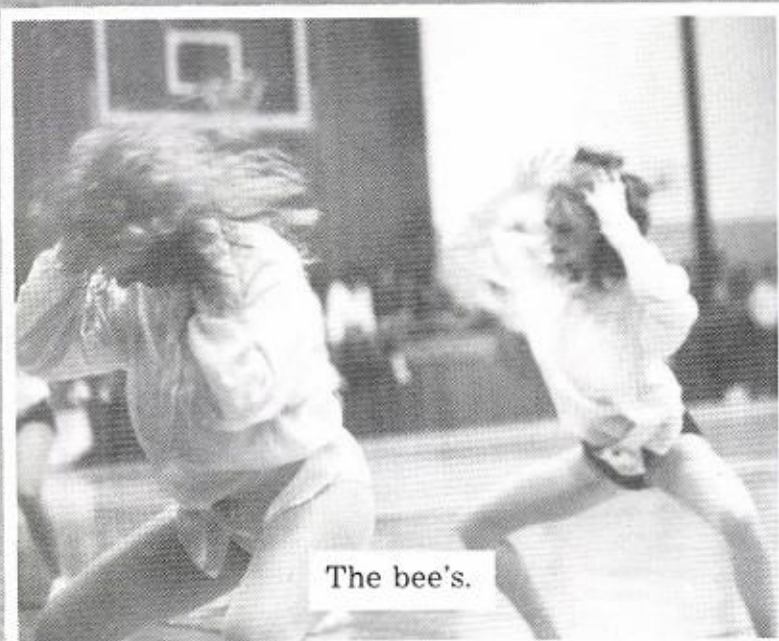

The 1984-85 Tigerette Drill Team, headed by Jane Hofmeister, perpetuated its tradition of excellence by performing exceptionally at competitions, athletic events, pep assemblies, and special shows.

The Tigerettes began the successful year by attending a week-long drill team camp, where team members learned new dance techniques and had the opportunity to meet other drill teams from throughout Kansas.

The camp also enabled the Drill Team to exhibit its talent. In addition to earning several prestigious "Superstar Girl Awards" for individual efforts, the Team earned the "Spirit Pom" and received an award for "Sweepstakes Home Routine." Senior Sharon Stewart also won the "Drill Down" exercise.

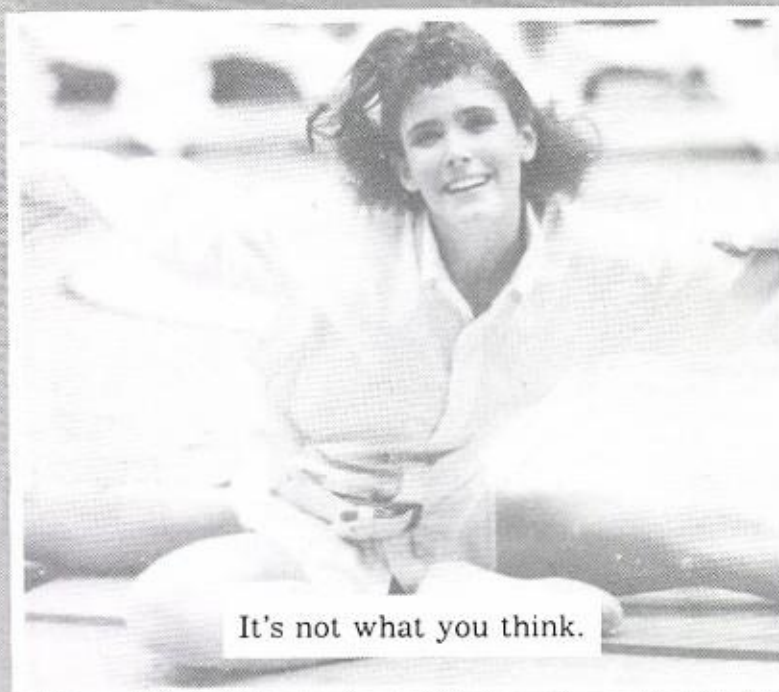

These successes were followed by yet another outstanding marching season. Practice with the Stridin' Tiger Marching Band and Flag Corps began in mid-August, enabling the unit to perfect its skills prior to performances at Blue Valley and participation in such regional competitions as the Wyandotte and Wichita contests. In these competitions, as in most of the Drill Team's exhibitions, the marching unit earned the highest possible ratings.

Preparations for the annual Miss Kansas Drill Team Competition and the Spring Show occupies much of the Drill Team's time this year. With the assistance of professional choreographer, Gerald Vincent, the Tigerettes planned their routines and excelled at both events.

Throughout the year, the Tigerettes demonstrated that hard work does indeed pay off, making the experience, as Kristi Gurwell put it, "more rewarding for everyone." The Tigerette Drill Team did indeed help to make the halftimes of football, basketball, and soccer games more enjoyable.

CHEERLEADING

Blue Valley's spirited cheerleaders worked enthusiastically throughout the year to heighten Tiger Pride and to encourage athletic success. The cheerleaders met together every day during their third hour class; they utilized this time to make up cheers, practice, plan pep assemblies, and make posters. This class was really the only time the cheerleaders could all be together because after school at least one squad was usually gone cheering for some sport.

The cheerleaders were responsible for many special activities this year. These girls were the ones who organized all the bizarre and fun pep assemblies. They held a pre-season pool party for the football team; they organized and sponsored the Donkey Basketball game. On National Coaches Day, they honored all of Blue Valley's coaches.

year was Mrs. Jeanne Cummings. Ms. Andrea Carver sponsored the junior varsity, and Mrs. Nancy Kissel worked with the freshmen.

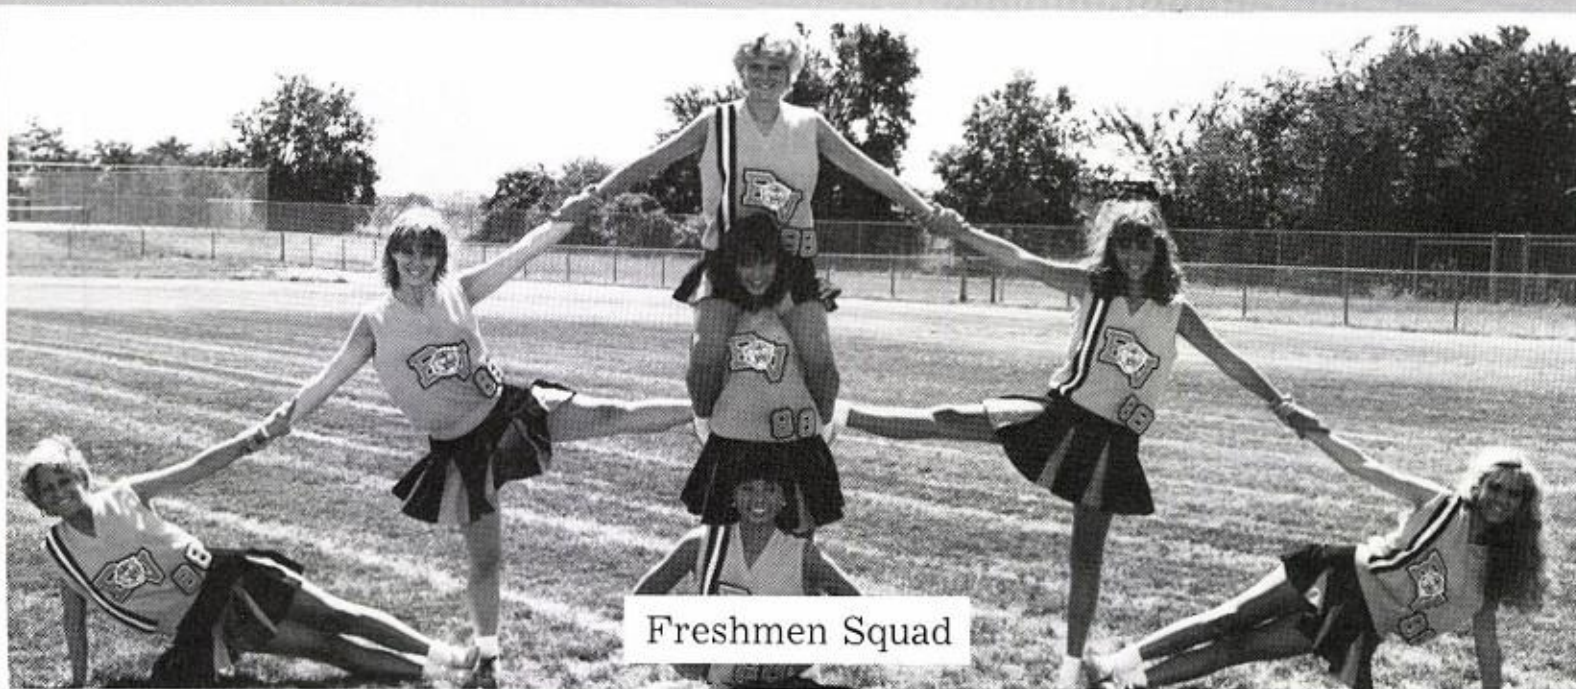

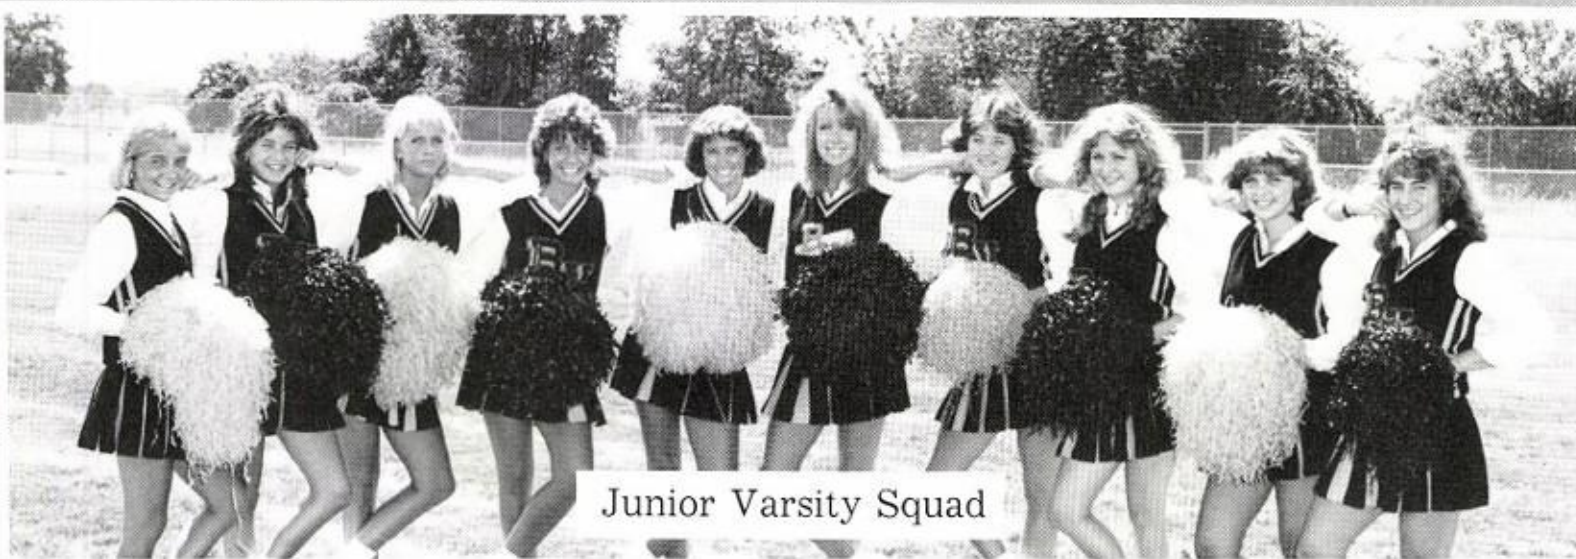

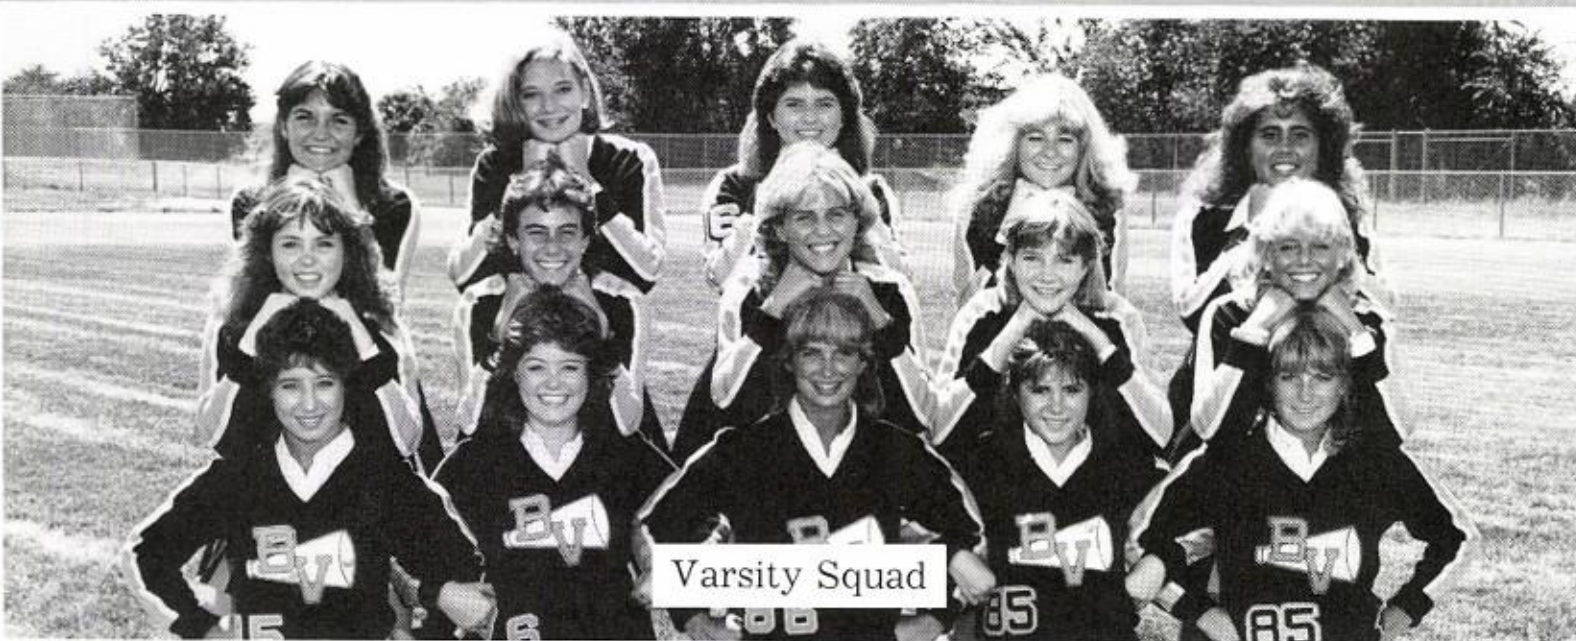

In preparation for the year's cheerleading activities, all of the cheerleaders attended a summer camp where they won many awards.

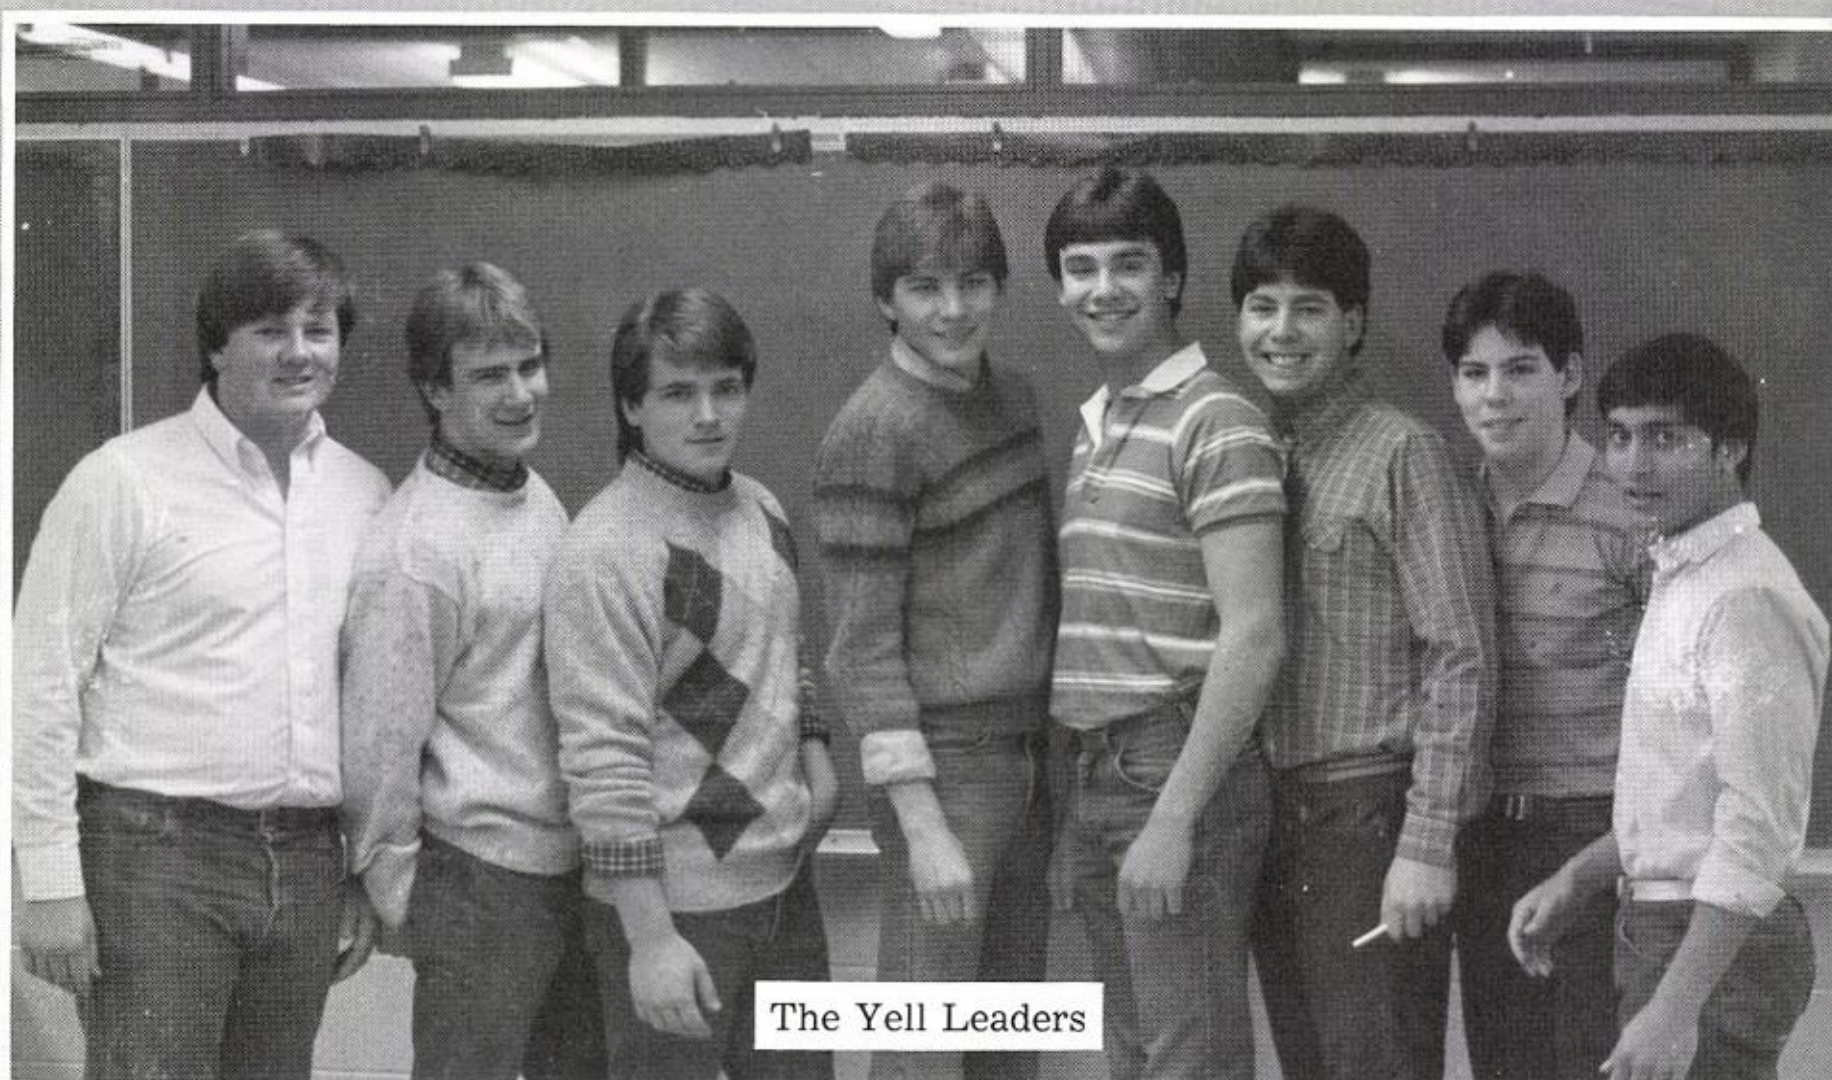

A squad of boys' yell leaders was also organized this year. They practiced three times a week after school during the basketball season with the cheerleaders. They served to further heighten the already high level of enthusiasm at the games.

The excellent support showed by the cheerleaders and yell leaders greatly aided Blue Valley's teams.

The Blue Valley High School Spirit Club was vastly reorganized this year. Under the leadership of sponsors Mr. Truman Snow and Ms. Susan O'Dell, the Club was renamed "The Pack" and made open to boys as well as to girls. Despite these changes, however, the fundamental goals of the organization (to promote school spirit, to increase student involvement, and to provide entertainment at the varsity basketball games) did not differ from past years.

The Pack sponsored many activities this year aimed at heightening Tiger Pride. One of their most successful ventures was the selling of striped "Tiger" shorts. These bizarre-looking bermudas were made-to-order by the home economics department.

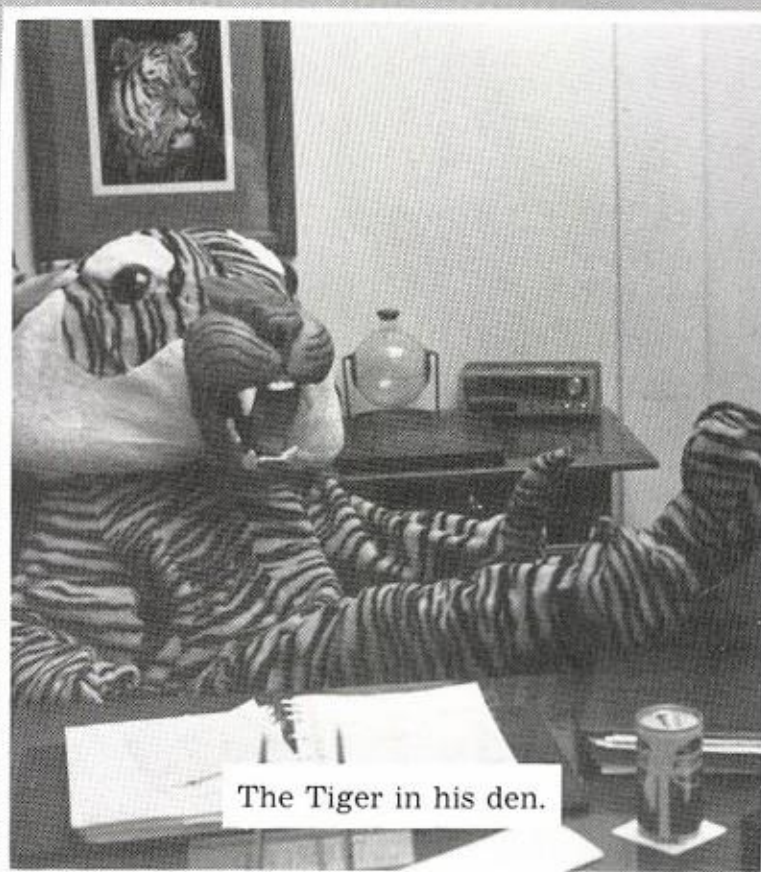

The overall success of the Pack only goes to prove the validity of this year's slogan: "The Pack is back."

Soccer team ends successful season

Dave Nash

The Blue Valley varsity soccer team finished the 1983 season with a 13-3-2 record, by far the best in its five year history.

The Tigers, under the direction of first-year coach Jim Babich, finished second in the soccer alliance league behind Bishop.

"I think we did a solid job," Babich said. "I think we lost, it's a team," he said.

At the end of the season, Babich said the team has goals, most fulfilled.

FOOTBALL

The Blue Valley Tiger's Football Team showed great improvement this year. Even though the team ended the season with only three wins and six loses, they showed improvement within the league. Two out of three of their wins were league games.

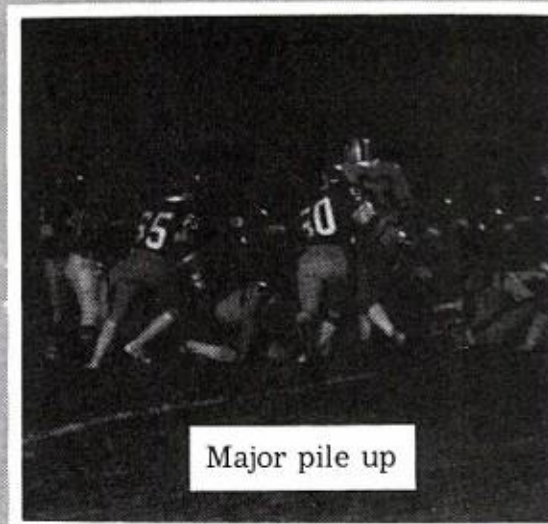

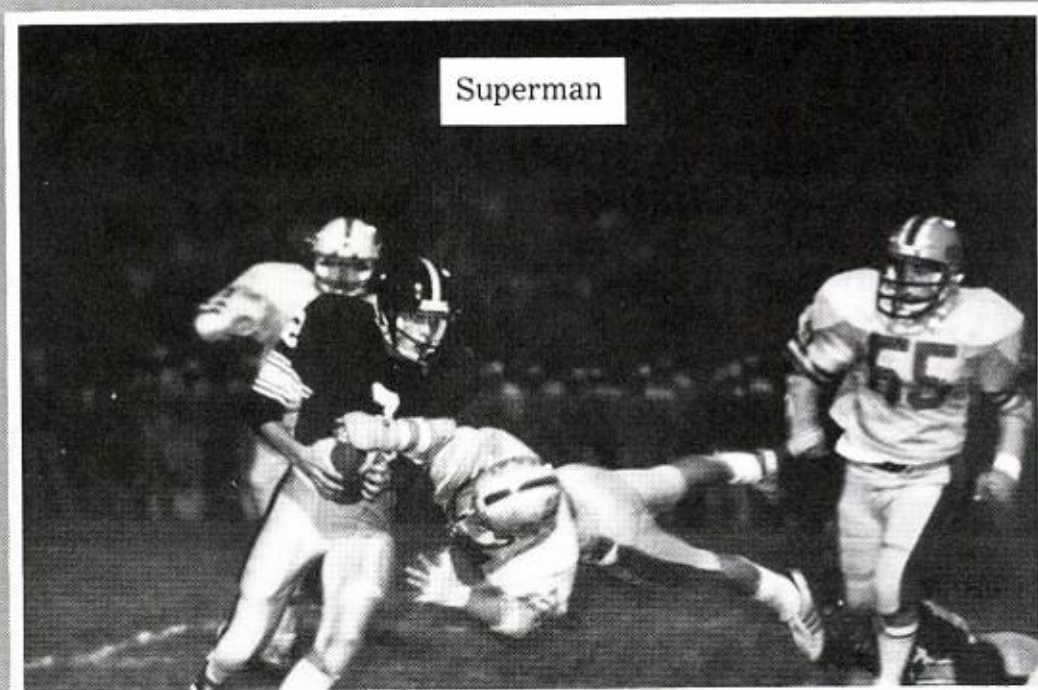

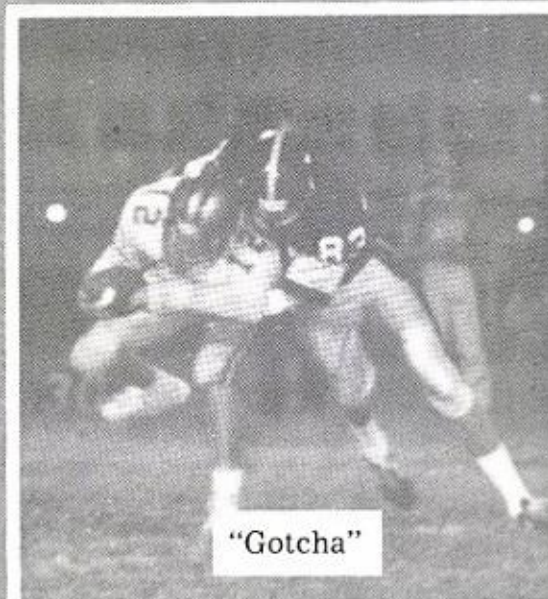

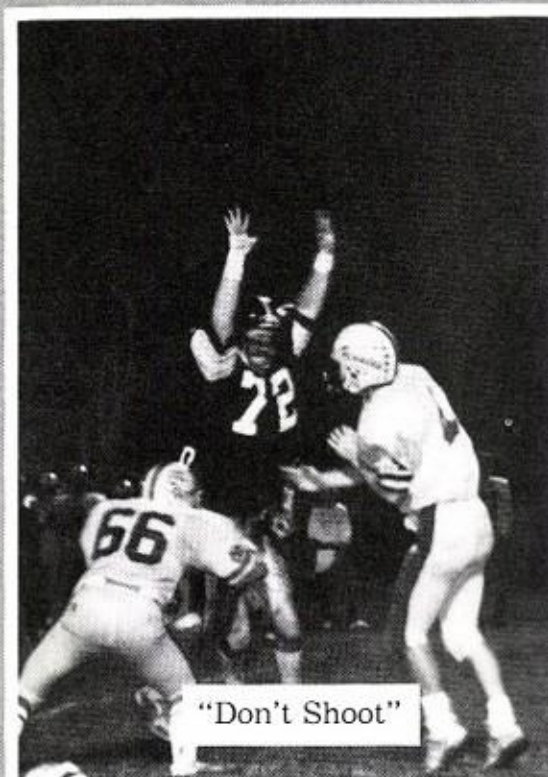

Many of the athletes were acknowledged for their outstanding abilities in the all EKL. Making the second team were Gary Offutt (linebacker), Brett Round (quarterback), Ken Smith (defensive end), and David Stabenow (wide receiver). Those receiving honorable mention were Tim Lancaster (defensive tackle), John Shaffer (linebacker), and Darren Dwyer (tight end).

The climax of the season was the 26-16 Homecoming victory over Belton. "Every time they came back we would either hold them or score again," quarterback Brett Round said.

Brett Round and Gary Offutt earned acknowledgement as the most valuable player for the offensive team and defensive team respectively.

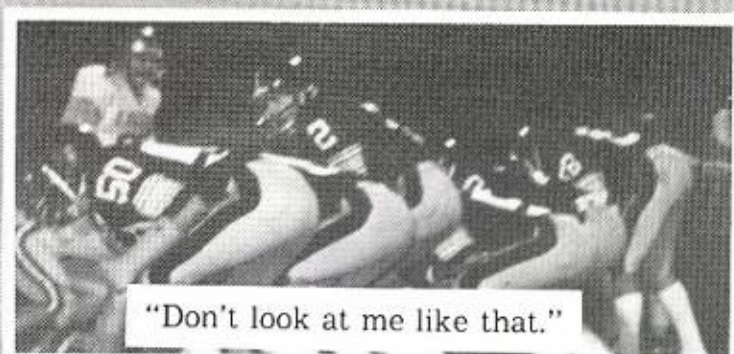

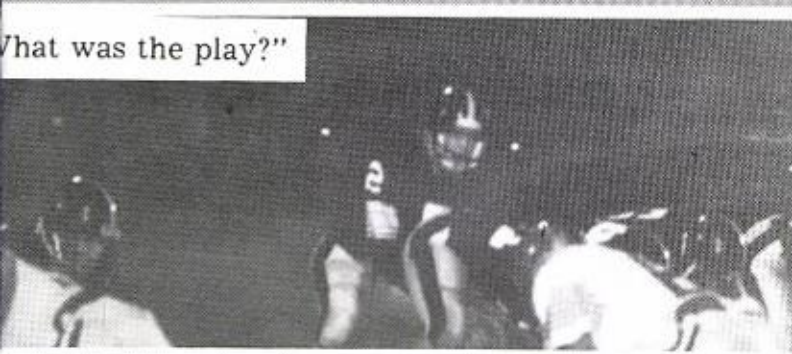

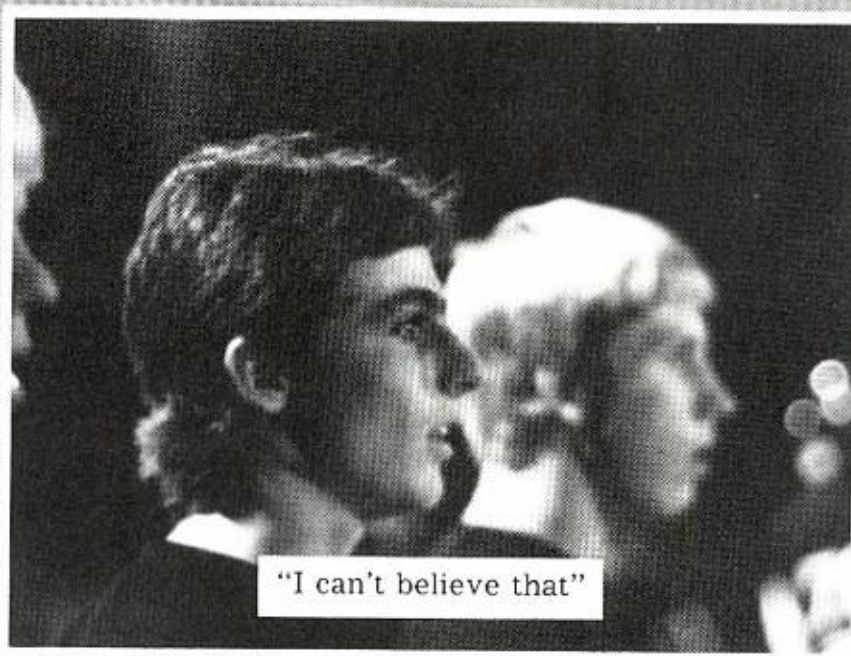

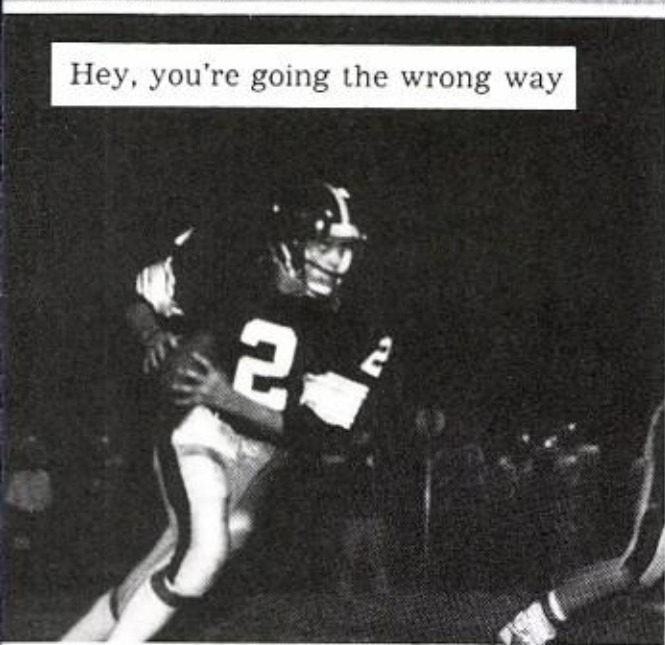

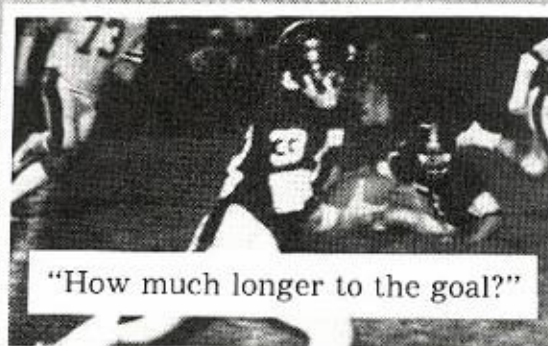

Both the Junior Varsity and Freshman teams finished their season with great experience. The Blue Valley football seems to be pointing to the future. "With nineteen lettermen returning and the Junior Varsity with their 5-3 record and the freshman team going undefeated with 7 wins, we seek a bright future for the Tiger Varsity Football Team," Coach Chuck Blaney exclaimed. Also with the under classmen starters, were Eric Miller, Eric Ralph, Mike West, John Shaffer, and David Stabenow as juniors. And Darren Stewart, and Ron Kopp started as sophomores. The varsity team should have a very successful season in the years to come.

VOLLEYBALL

Although "Eat Leather" was the unofficial slogan of the Varsity Volleyball Team this year, the Lady Tigers' record of eight wins and seventeen losses reflects that the opponents were not always the only ones chewing cowhide. Nevertheless, the team proved to be increasingly aggressive and effective as the season progressed.

Kim Robinson and Stefanie Brumley, for example, both improved tremendously on their hitting and vertical jumps. "Stacey Mansker, a freshman, probably improved overall, considering that she went from playing eighth grade ball to being a varsity starter within a year," said Coach Susan O'Dell.

Brumley's outstanding performance earned her a position on the Sun County All Star and the Eastern Kansas League All Conference teams. Robinson, who was also chosen for the Sun County team, was named "Most Valuable Player" for the season.

Brumley served as varsity team captain, and Robinson was floor leader and co-captain.

"We may not have won all of our games, but we learned to play mental volleyball. We would visualize everything perfectly before our games," Robinson commented.

Injuries, in the form of ankle sprains, affected the team to some extent this year. Although Robinson was able to play with her injury, Laura Weisenborn was forced to sit out two games.

The Junior Varsity team ended their season with a 7-16 record. "The J.V. team had the best hitters they have ever had also, although that's only one aspect of the team," said Coach O'Dell.

Blue Valley's Freshman team had its best season ever this year, winning thirteen of its twenty-one matches.

This year's soccer teams experienced perhaps the most outstanding season in Blue Valley's history, with the varsity squad finishing with an overall record of twelve wins, four losses, and two ties.

"The season went by really fast, but it was a blast. Other than a mid-season slump, which cost us a couple of games, we had a very strong season," said team member Bret Chapman.

In the varsity team's last league game on October 20th, the Tigers triumphed over its biggest rival, Bishop Miege, by a score of three to zero. This victory gave Blue Valley the Soccer Alliance championship.

The team was very fortunate this season to experience no significant injuries to hinder the squad's overall performance.

The most improved player from the 1983 season to the 1984 season was Chris Cacioppo.

strength, and agility over the off season," Coach Jim Babich said. He went from a marginal starter in 1983 to the most valuable player award winner for the 1984 season. Several other upperclassmen put forth tremendous effort throughout the year to contribute to the varsity team's overall success.

The varsity squad's impressive performance was not unique for Blue Valley's teams, however. The junior varsity team completed its season with a record of twelve wins and only two losses, while the "C" team finished with a total of ten wins, six losses, and one tie for the season.

The exceptional records earned by the junior varsity and "C" squads point to further outstanding seasons for Blue Valley teams in the years to come. All these athletes deserve praise for their success.

Looking beyond this season's success, Coach McDonald commented, "We should return four of seven varsity boys and seven of seven varsity girls for next year." Such experience promises to elevate the team's effectiveness in future seasons, and this to build upon this year's achievement.

GIRL'S TENNIS

1984 proved to be another successful year for Blue Valley's Girls' Tennis Team. With new coach, Ron Mersh, the Lady Tigers completed the season with an overall record of five wins and seven losses, earning the team a third place position in the Eastern Kansas League.

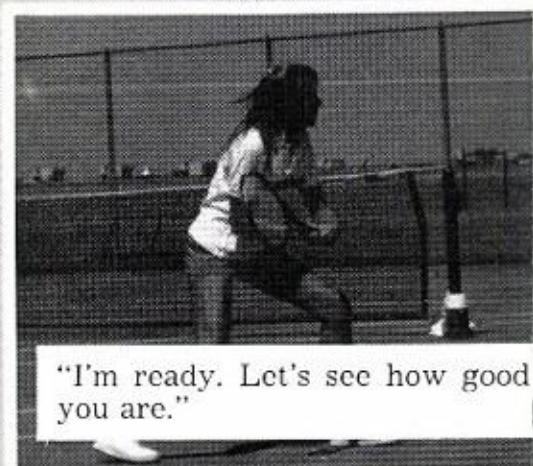

Although this year's team had many impressive members, Jackie Olmstead was named Most Valuable Player for the season.

The Blue Valley Girls' Golf Team had a very outstanding season. The Lady Tiger's placed first in the Regionals and fifth in the State Competition with their new coach, Mr. Dan Locke.

Joelle Riani, a senior was rewarded with the most valuable player award for the Ladies golf team. Joelle participated on the Blue Valley golf team her four years at BV.

GIRL'S GOLF

WRESTLING

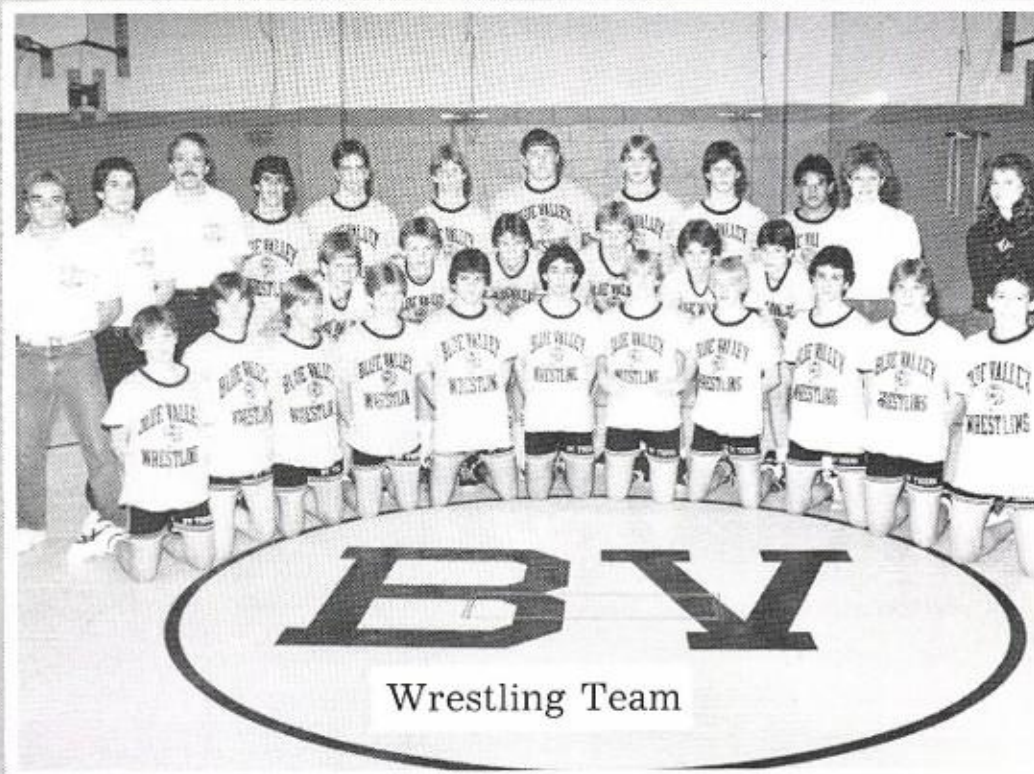

Despite a slow start intensified by inexperience, the Blue Valley Wrestling Team proved to be increasingly competitive as this year's season progressed.

"Our skills have improved, as well as our mental and physical toughness and overall confidence," Lindsay Ball, Tiger coach, said.

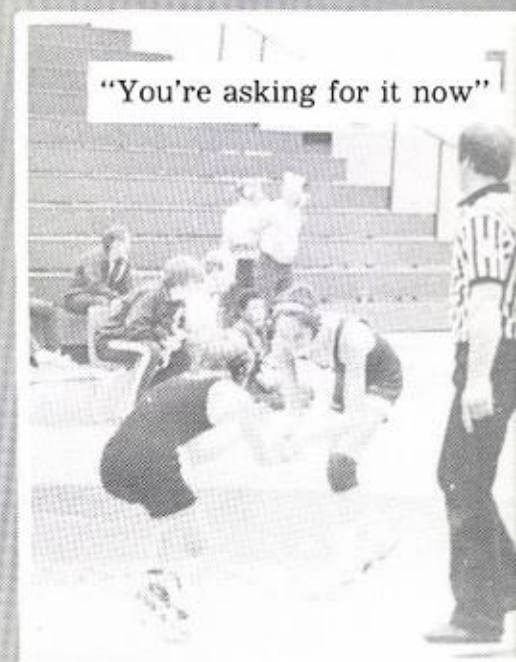

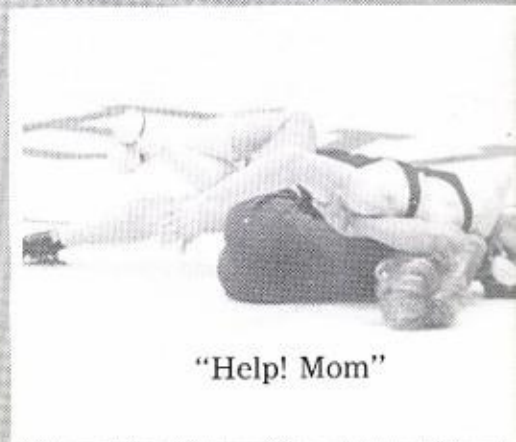

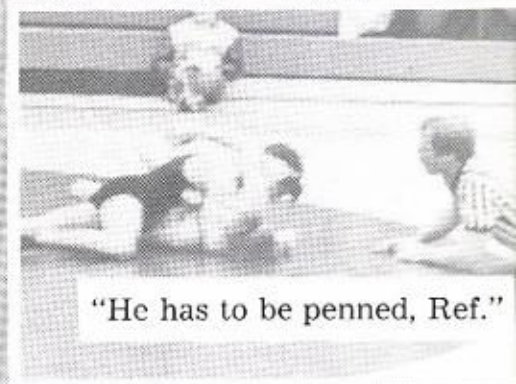

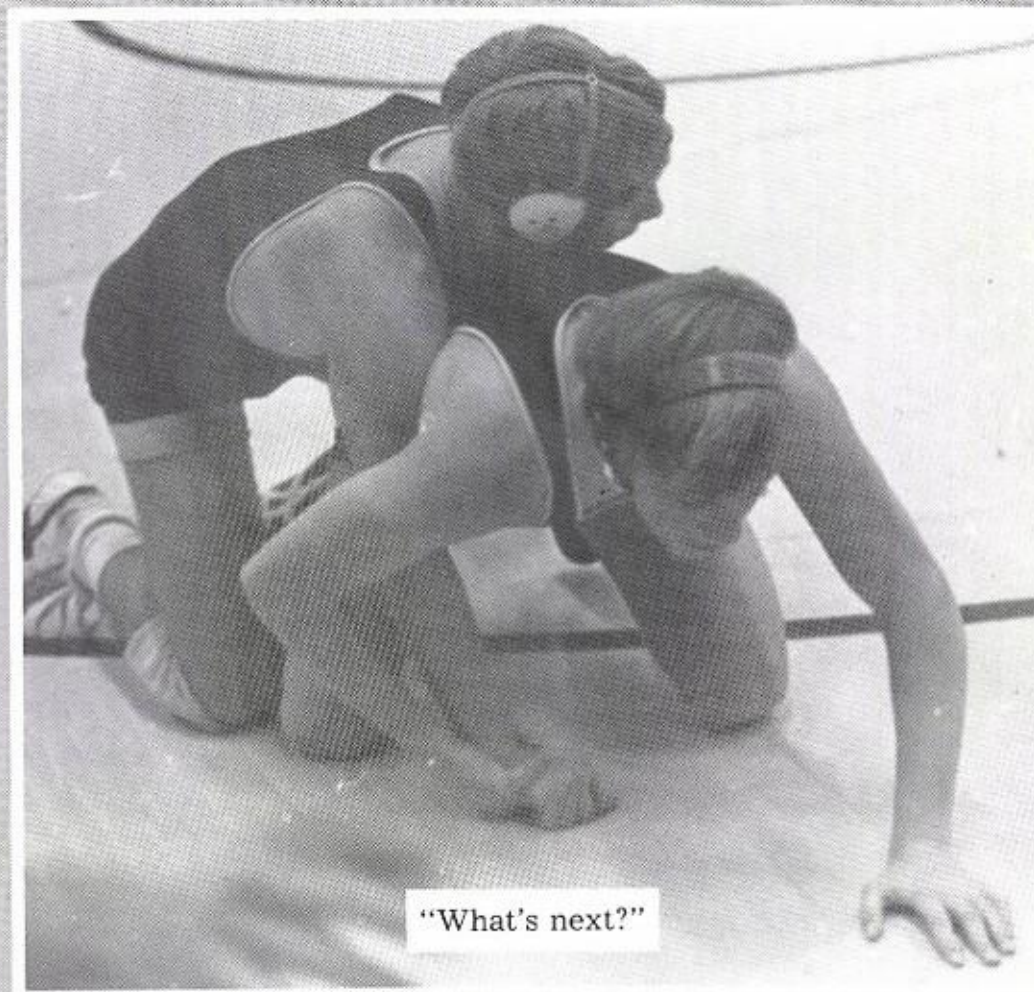

The dramatic turning point of the Tiger wrestling season occurred at the Bonner Springs Tournament, where the varsity squad placed third overall. The Tiger team's only loss at the tournament, in fact, came when the squad ranked second in the Kansas City area outgrappled them.

According to Coach Ball, the Bonner Springs Tournament proved the team's ability and gave the squad greater enthusiasm. In light of the experience gained by this year's team, Coach Ball anticipates even greater success in the future.

BOYS' SWIMMING

Although the 1984-85 Boys' Swim Team was basically inexperienced in high school competition, team performance was not affected in what proved to be an aggressive and hardworking season.

By defeating Shawnee Mission North by 59 points this year, the team showed great improvement over last year, when HS margin of victory was often less substantial.

Heightened performance was also exhibited at the Shawnee Mission South Invitational, where each swimmer established at least one personal record, and the team as a whole shattered three school records.

Much of this success was inspired by mutual encouragement, team spirit, and overall team unity which grew as the season progressed. Coach House attributed the team's impressive performance to the positive attitudes and aggressiveness of the swimmers.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

With several returning varsity lettermen, the 1984-85 Boys' Varsity Basketball Team had a head start on experience. The four returning starters were Dirk Kastr, Nick Kure, Brett Round, and Ken Smith. Other returning lettermen were Scott Osburn, Mike Sharp, and Eric Bunting.

Coach Rick Taylor stated that the team had three major goals to accomplish during the season: "To win the Eastern Kansas League, and to make it to state competition.

Although mono prevented Bunting from competing for most of the season, to the partial detriment of team depth, the overall unity and determination of the players enabled the squad, with the support of The Pack and the rest of the student body, to overcome its obstacles and to complete an extremely successful season.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The Girls' Varsity Basketball Team, fueled by an excellent attitude and an increased "feel" for the game, made 1984-85 another impressive season. Coached by Leon Asbury, the Varsity squad aspired to develop a "team" concept" and to play more aggressive defense. By the season's end, it was evident that the girls had accomplished both these objectives commendably.

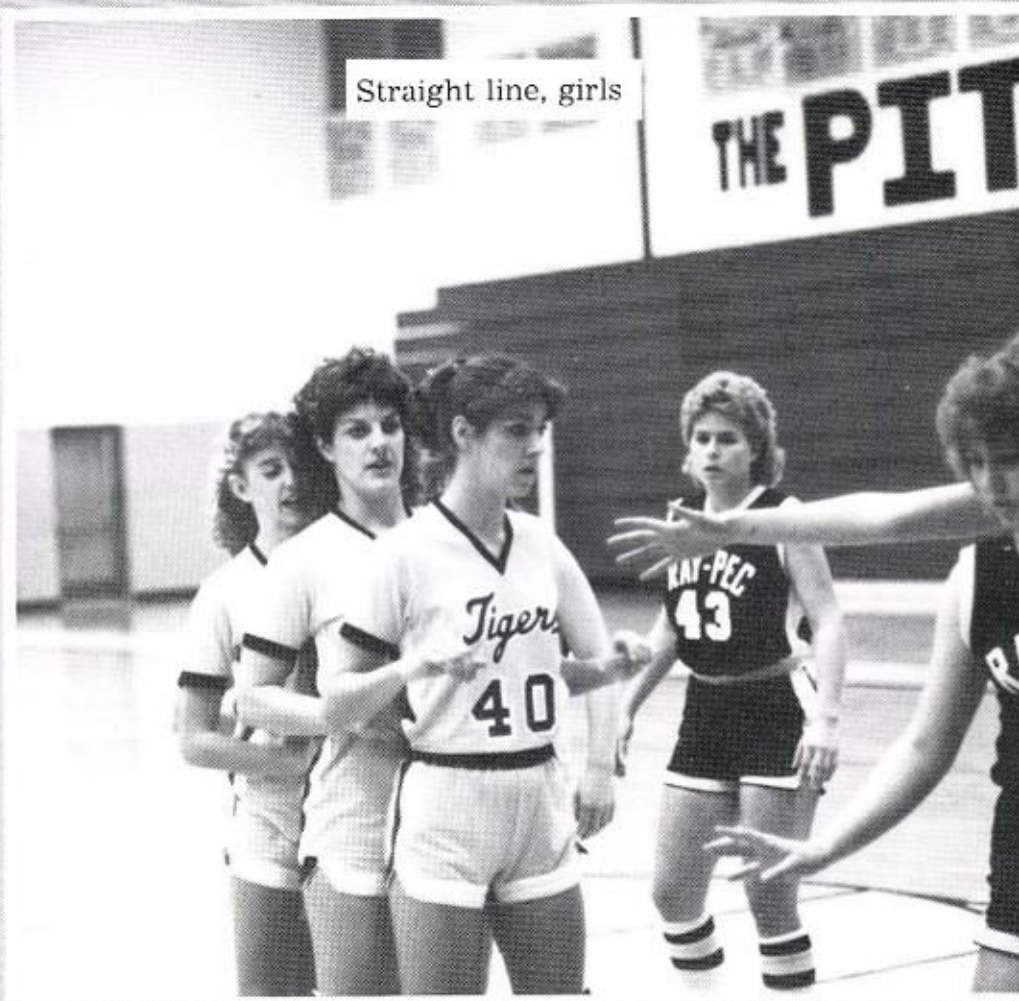

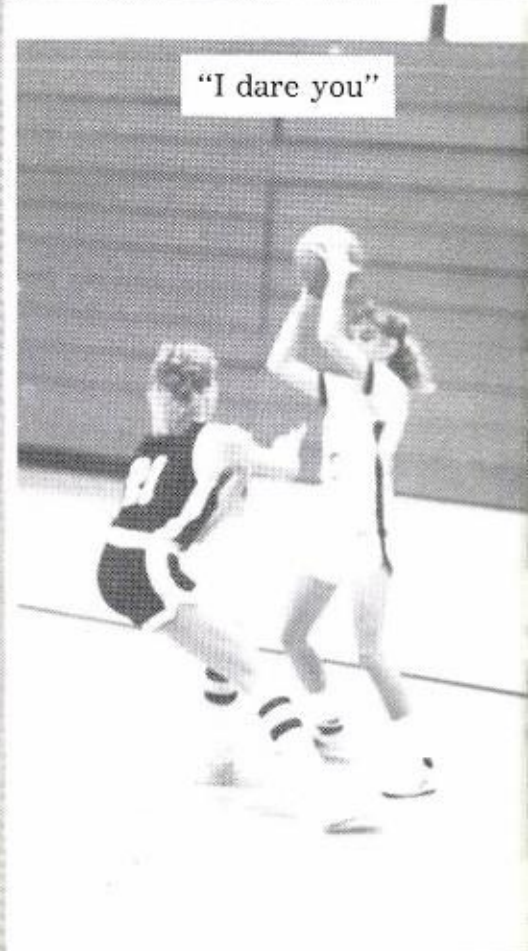

This success arose in part from the contributions of this year's returning letterwomen: Kelly Wells, Mary DeVeney, juniors, and Stefanie Brumley, senior. Their efforts helped to offset such unexpected difficulties as the injury of Torri Behnke, which prevented her from competing for over a month, to add stability to the team.

Asbury cited the second contest against Bonner Springs as the turning point of the year and the "start of a positive season."

MS. CYR,

For all of the trouble, headaches, and loud music you put up with; and for all the cakes, pop, donuts, and distilled water you gave us, we thank you!

We also appreciate how much you have taught us these past few years, and the patience you have displayed toward us. We couldn't have won the Science Bowl or succeeded at the Science Fair without your expertise.
